Akron Man Charges Poulson,

UGHT PROBE DEFEAT

Franklin-Co Grand Jury Sifting All Angles of Reported Attempt

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16—Three members of the state legislature were summoned before the Franklin-co grand jury today for questioning concerning the charges of Rep. G. J. Harter, Democrat, of Akron, that Francis W. Poulson, state Democratic chairman, sought to trade state jobs for votes in the legislature.

J. Freer Bittinger, Ashland, speaker of the house, and Rep. Clingan Jackson, Youngstown, appeared before the jury this morning. Rep. Harter was to appear this afternoon.

Harter charged Poulson offered state jobs to induce members to vote against a resolution proposing a legislative investigation of the state liquor department.

Donald J. Hoskins, Franklin-co prosecuting attorney, stated Poulson requested the grand jury investigation. Harter has declared he is "ready to move" his assertion that favoritism and irregularities prevail in the liquor department.

Harter said Poulson promised him John Hawitt, Democrat of Mahoning, jobs in exchange for a vote against Harter's resolution proposing an investigation.

VESPER SERVICE AT HIGH SCHOOL PLEASES THROUG

The Girls' Glee club comprised of fifty voices, presented an impressive vesper service of Christmas music Sunday afternoon in the high school auditorium.

The brass quartet, Dwight McCollister, Montford Kirkwood, Dick Plum, and Vernon Weller, which played prior to the opening of the program, added to the splendor and spirit of Christmas.

A unique method of presenting the Carol was centered about "Adeste Fidelis" which was hummed by the entire chorus at the opening and closing of the program.

The songs which were especially appealing to the large audience were "Silent Night," "O, Little Town of Bethlehem," and "Away in a Manger."

The presentation, which was a novel Yuletide performance, was under the capable direction of Miss Marjorie Priest, music supervisor of schools. Wahntia Barnhart played the piano accompaniment.

NEW BOILER INSPECTED

In Contempt? Court to Decide

IS GENERAL Ralph M. Inmell, left, Wisconsin WPA director subject to a citation for contempt of the Wisconsin state senate because he refused to testify before a committee of that body investigating alleged political favoritism in the WPA? State Senator William H. Shenners, right, as head of the investigating committee, says he is. General Inmell says he isn't, inasmuch as he is a federal official and as such is not responsible to the Wisconsin state senate. Wisconsin courts will decide.

3 CITIES BIDDING FOR GOP CONFAB

Chicago, Kansas City, and
Cleveland Send Spokesmen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(INS)—Representatives of Chicago, Kansas City and Cleveland today officially invited Republicans to stage their presidential convention in their cities next year.

The virtues of each city were outlined by civic leaders at the meeting of the Republican national committee, which will finally vote on the site.

Mayor Edward Kelly, of Chicago, told the committee members that his city will give "you the most hospitable convention you have ever had."

"I will personally see to it," the mayor said, "that every delegate will get the same treatment that he expects in his own home."

Albert D. Lasner, another Chicago spokesman, informed the committee that the Chicago citizens committee will guarantee the Republicans $150,000 should they come to the Illinois metropolis.

DES MOINES, IA., Dec. 16—(INS)—The National young Republican headquarters, never officially recognized by the National Republican committee, today announced it was received the approval and endorsement of Major G. O. P. presidential possibilities.

Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas, Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho were among those who stamped the youth movement an important phase of the 1936 campaign.

U. S. WILL OFFER NEW SERIES OF BONDS JANUARY 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(INS)—A new series of U. S. savings bonds in small denominations, to be offered for sale through the postal service beginning January 1, was announced at the treasury today.

The issue is virtually identical with the 1935 series which were termed "baby bonds." However, in its announcement of the new issues the treasury did not refer to them as "baby bonds."

The securities are to be issued in denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000. These figures representing security values after 10 years. Prices of the bonds were announced as $75 for each $100 maturity value, with corresponding prices for the other maturity values.

The first issue of the "baby bonds," which were put on the market last March 1, was sold to the amount of $178,718,250, representing a maturity value of $238,291,000.

$15,000 IN LEATHER TAKEN
BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 16—(INS)—Binding the night watchman at the Lord Tanning company, four armed bandits today carted off a truck load of selected leather goods valued at $15,000.

FEDERAL AGENTS AIDING IN HUNT FOR YOUNG SCION

Special Delivery Letter Sent to Caleb Jones Milne's Brother

KIDNAP THEORY HEARD

Uncle Says Youth May Have
"Gone on Party"; Family
"One of Oldest"

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(INS)—G-men and crack New York detectives swung into action today in a search for kidnapers who are believed to have abducted 23-year-old Caleb Jones Milne, IV, scion of one of Philadelphia's oldest and most aristocratic families.

Conflicting theories were offered to explain young Milne's strange disappearance from his home on Saturday, but the youth's 18-year-old brother, Frederick, received a special delivery letter, postmarked from Poughkeepsie, yesterday, which read:

"We have your brother in the country. Keep in touch with your grandfather in Philadelphia. Keep a large amount of money on hand."

Silence Maintained
The federal men, the detectives and Milne's relatives all maintained silence on the subject of his disappearance.

The young man's grandfather, Caleb Jones Milne, 2d, wealthy retired textile manufacturer, could not be reached, while his uncle, Warrner Milne, parried all questions with:

"Perhaps my nephew went out on a party."

From all that could be ascertained, however, there was little of hilarity in the circumstances immediately preceding Milne's disappearance.

A strange telephone call, it is said, reached him in the studio apartment he shared with his brother, Frederick.

"This is Dr. Green in Gracie square," the voice on the phone is reputed to have said. "Your Attorney General David T. Wilentz affixed his signature to the warrant formally notifying Col. Mark O. Kimberling, principal keeper of the state, that the convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby is to die during the week of Jan. 13.

After the document is signed by Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., it will be turned over to Kimberling.

"Army on Crutches" to Visit Polls

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Dec. 16—(INS)—Hundreds of aged people, many on canes and crutches, today prepared to brave wintry blasts tomorrow to march to the polls in Michigan's third congressional district to choose a congressman, but, more important to them, to cast ballots which they hope will insure the $200-a-month pension the Townsend old-age program would provide.

Many have not voted since the days of Cleveland and McKinley, and others have never voted at all, but the golden promises of the Townsend plan has succeeded in luring their interest. Conservative estimates by election officials said at least 3,500 persons past the age of 60, who otherwise would have stayed by their firesides, would be casting votes tomorrow.

Vacancy Caused by Death
Personalities of the candidates mattered little to the aged voters. Because Vernor W. Main, the Republican candidate, promised support of the Townsend plan in congress, he will obtain the support of the "army on crutches." Opposing Main for the seat in congress left vacant by the death of Rep. Henry Kimball (R) of Kalamazoo—the fifth representative in a row from the third district to die in office—will be Howard W. Cavanagh, the Democratic candidate.

A third candidate in the race was E. G. Keifer, a dry cleaner and laundryman in the village of

CIRCLEVILLE HOLIDAY BUSINESS IS BOOMING

Business is booming in Circleville.

A skeptical person need only to make a trip uptown to become convinced that Circleville buyers are actually buying. Saturday night the business district was crowded with heavily-loaded shoppers, and Monday many more were going through the stores to make their choices from splendid stocks.

Not since the Christmas of 1929 have Circleville store managers reported such volume of business.

There is no need for a person to leave Circleville to buy Christmas presents. Prices are lower, and bargains are better in Circleville.

MRS. COOK DIES IN HOSPITAL AS INFANT IS BORN

Child is "Fair"; Funeral Services for Mother to Be

Mrs. Carrie Edna Cook, 33, wife of George E. Cook, 159 E. Mill-st, died in Berger hospital Sunday at 2:45 p. m. a few minutes after giving birth to an 8-pound son.

The infant, reported "fair" by hospital attaches, is Mrs. Cook's third child, two daughters, Sara, Jane, 13, and Rosemary, 10, surviving with their father.

Mrs. Cook's death came as a shock to her many friends.

FIREMEN IN LAST PLEA FOR TOYS

Wednesday Set as Deadline for Their Acceptance

A notice to forgetful residents was issued Monday noon by city firemen.

They asked all persons who have toys to donate for their rebuilding campaign to bring them to the department before Wednesday night. They explained this deadline would give them an opportunity to repair the toys in time for the distribution on Christmas eve.

MEXICO NEARING INTERNAL FIGHT

President Cardenas and Ex-Chief Calles at Odds

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16—(INS)—The government of President Lazaro M. Cardenas took elaborate military precautions today to prevent threatened disorders in the fast growing political storm centering around the return to Mexico of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, whose opponents charge he is plotting a coup to reinstate himself as the country's "strong man" dictator.

All motor cars entering or leaving the capital were searched thoroughly, heavy troop patrols guarded all gateways to the city. The home of Gen. Calles was reported virtually surrounded by an armed guard.

Headed by 50 labor organizations in the federal district, a strong movement was under way to expel Gen. Calles from the country. He arrived here only last week after a self-imposed exile in California.

Political observers forecast a "clean-out" of all Callista elements from the government and the army. Expulsion of ten Calles followers from congress was expected momentarily.

Meanwhile Gen. Calles and his followers began to fight their opposition. Gen. Calles, a former president, applied for an injunction against the expulsion from Mexico of Gen. Jose Maria Tapia, former chief of staff and allied with Calles, who was ordered arrested and expelled yesterday as the government launched its drive the former "strong man."

FIREMEN OUT OF LUCK

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 16—City firemen have been working for weeks to make hundreds of kiddies happy on Christmas day with rebuilt toys—but Christmas will not be so merry for the firemen.

In making out the payrolls Saturday the city auditor found there was only sufficient money to pay the firemen for about eight days this month. There will be no further pay during December.

CADY MAY KEEP MAYOR'S OFFICE INTO NEW YEAR

Court Contest Delay Provides City With Unprecedented Situation

APPEAL HEARING DEC. 23

Judge Dechant Officially Postponed Trial Because of Leist Illness

Circleville may see an unprecedented state of affairs when 1936 finally arrives with a defeated candidate for mayor retaining his office past the legal time for him to serve.

Unless something surprising happens the contest for the office will not be decided until after January 1. The law reads, it is pointed out, that the incumbent remains in office until such a contest is settled.

Hearing Is Delayed
The hearing will not get under way until next Monday. If it is held Monday and Tuesday, recessed for Christmas, and then resumed, Judge Charles B. Dechant of Lebanon, Warren-co, will be on the bench.

He was in Circleville Monday officially postponing the opening of the trial from today because of the illness of C. A. Leist, attorney for Mayor W. B. Cady. Cady's foe is William J. Graham, Republican, who has been declared by the election board to be the next mayor since he won when a recount gave him three more votes than Mr. Cady.

May Carry Higher

If Judge Dechant decides in favor of Mr. Cady, Mr. Graham will probably petition for a supreme court hearing; if the court favors Mr. Graham, then Mr. Cady's lawyers may carry up the appeal.

Appointment of safety and service directors will be delayed until the election fight is finally concluded, whenever that may be.

DONAHEY TO PICK MAN TO SUCCEED LATE OHIO JUDGE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16—(INS)—Choice of Ohio's senators for federal judge for the southern district to succeed the late Judge Benson Hough, may be announced within ten days by Sen. A. V. Donahey, it was learned here today.

A reliable source said Sen. Robert J. Bulkley will let Donahey recommend the new judge who will be appointed by President Roosevelt.

Donahey was in Washington but was expected here next week for the holidays. He has not indicated who he favors for the appointment, but Judge Will P. Stephenson of the state supreme court was reported in some quarters as having the pole position.

TRIAL PICTURES MAY AID BRUNO IN LAST APPEAL

Attorneys Considering Placing Action Shots of Wilentz Before Court

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(INS)—Grimly, stolidly the forces of life and death today began their last, great battle for the soul of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

While the convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby clung desperately to the last faint glimmers of hope in his death house cell in Trenton, N. J., his attorneys gathered gravely in Somerville to confer on what will be the ultimate effort to save the German carpenter from the electric chair—an appeal to the New Jersey court of pardons.

One of the defense attorneys will be selected to make the official application to the court of pardons.

Other Plans Studied

The others then will busy themselves with formulating other plans to aid the condemned man.

One of these plans, according to information reaching the Evening Journal, calls for the carpenter to plead his own cause to the court of pardons through the medium of talking pictures.

From a miniature screen in the state capitol building at Trenton, the Journal says it has been advised, the movies of Hauptmann under the relentless cross-examination of Attorney General David T. Wilentz at his trial in Flemington will be shown to the members of the court.

These pictures, now showing in a Broadway theatre, show the carpenter being cajoled and harassed by Wilentz. At one point Hauptmann, livid, appears almost on the verge of springing at Wilentz.

The Journal says it learned from authentic sources that the majority of the eight members of the court of pardons would not consent to personal pleading on the part of Hauptmann, in spite of the supposed intention of Governor Harold Hoffman, a member of the court, to present him before them.

Would View Pictures

They will not be averse to view-

Home Helps

No need to tell the experienced housekeeper how much her little jars of jam and jelly and her fruit cakes and candies are appreciated as gifts! But each year the accessories for making such gifts even more attractive are increasing in number and are widely available. Your department store or the paper novelty store will have rolls of waxed paper. Such paper is essential to fruit cake baking, to lining the candy box, to wrapping certain pieces of candy such as caramels, taffy, soft fondants.

At the same counters you will find cellulose film in white and colors, sold in rolls and packages. This is also excellent for wrapping candy pieces and cakes. And for tying up little jars of jam, or any package of food. Ribbons made of the same interesting substance, in various widths, some of it gummed so that it seals a package at the same time it adds a decorative ribbon touch, are sold in rolls at the same counter.

ASSORTED PAPERS

Silver and gold papers, papers printed with Christmas decorative detail, seals, figured ribbons, stickers with stars and other holiday emblems on them are available in such quantity now that there is no excuse for sending a gift in a dull wrapping and one which is tied up without imagination.

For your fruit cakes and the other small gifts from your kitchen equip yourself with a supply of these charming Christmas accessories. You need a good pair of scissors, a ruler, too, will save paper and help give professional looking packages. And then choose your papers and cords and ribbons with some definite scheme in mind. Why not silver packages—either of paper or silver cellulose film, tied with blue ribbon on which little stars appear, or gold packages with crimson ribbon, or green cellulose film packages tied with holly patterned ribbon, or white packages tied with gold cord and a few gold paper stars pasted on the package.

Try to get some real holly, too, so that a small sprig of this holiday plant may be fastened in each package you give away. Or a tiny bit of pine or mistletoe, or bayberry. These little touches distinguish the gift and add to its value.

A Veteran Smoker

LITTLE four-year-old Gloria Mae Orlandi of Dalcen, Ill., has assumed one of the last prerogatives of man—she is a confirmed pipe smoker. For more than a year Gloria has been combining dolls, toys and pipes. She smokes as many as a dozen pipefuls per day, and her father, Dominick Orlandi, PWA worker, is proud of his daughter because she never has been sick in her life.

ing the pictures, however, it was said.

Another of the defense plans, it is said, calls for an application for a new trial on the grounds of newly discovered evidence. The nature of this evidence is being carefully guarded, but from one source it was reported one of the items which may be brought up is a contention that Amundus Hochmuth, chief eye-witness against Hauptmann, had applied before the trial to the welfare department in New York for a pension because he was partly blind.

SALES TAX TOKENS BEING USED FOR "ANYTHING BUT"

DENVER.—(INS)—"Saw toothed tokens" may be the cure for headaches that have beset Charles M. Armstrong and others holding similar jobs in states with fractional sales taxes.

Armstrong is state treasurer of Colorado. Among his other duties is that of supplying sales tax "tokens." The tokens are worth one-fifth of a cent each and are supposed to be used only in payment of the 2 per cent tax sales.

When the tax on a sale totals a cent or more, regular United States currency is used. Hence, Armstrong reasoned at the outset of the sales tax program, five tokens would be the maximum number any one person would have in his possession at one time. Figuring the population of Colorado at an even one million, he ordered $5,000,000 tokens, enough to give every resident of the state the necessary number.

But the first five million was only a drop in the bucket. So many tokens, disappeared from circulation, that merchants pleaded for more, threatening to refuse collection of the tax unless they were supplied.

An additional two million tokens was ordered, then another million. Still the cry went up for more tokens.

Uses to which the handy aluminum pieces were being put were found to be many and varied. They provided stakes for inexpensive bridge and crap games. Ladies used them as ornaments for hats and dresses. One man, covering a shack with tarpaper found that the tokens, slightly smaller than a 50-cent piece, square with rounded corners and having a small hole in the center, were just what he needed to fasten the paper to the structure.

"We didn't figure on the pack-rat instinct," Armstrong admits. "Kids collect tokens on strings

Grand Opera to Return To Radio Next Saturday

NBC With Milton Cross as Narrator to Present Lohengrin from New York Stage

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Again radio listeners throughout the world are to be the invited guests at the Metropolitan Opera's Saturday matinees, commencing next Saturday.

Again, as since the historic first Metropolitan Opera broadcast on Christmas Day, 1931, these complete performances will be broadcast from coast to coast and beyond to Hawaii over NBC's combined WEAF and WJZ networks, and they will be short-waved for listeners all over the world.

The opera to be heard in this season's inaugural broadcast will be Richard Wagner's "Lohengrin," with Lotte Lehmann and Lauritz Melchior in the two leading roles of Elsa and Lohengrin. The performance will be under the direction of Artur Bodansky.

The broadcast will commence at 1:45 p. m., E.S.T., and will extend to the last note of the finale. During this first Saturday matinee broadcast, Edward Johnson, new general manager of the Metropolitan Opera association, will make a brief address to the radio audience.

Milton J. Cross, veteran NBC announcer who has announced the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts from the beginning, again will be at the microphone to announce each act and comment upon the plot and action of the stage presentation.

The first night show started its sixth year on the air last Friday night. . . . Joe Cook is expected back on the air some time next month. . . . The opening of May Wine, Sigmund Romberg's latest operetta, was postponed from Tuesday to Thursday night so it would not interfere with his broadcast, and from his attending. . . . threaded through the holes. One youngster boasted he had 700. A grown man I overheard talking in a drug store the other night admitted he had 500. The merchants eagerly offered to buy them, but he refused, said he liked to save 'em."

Then, came a suggestion to Armstrong's office. Put sharp, uneven edges on the tokens.

"That saw-toothed edge idea might not be so bad," Armstrong said. "They'd want to get rid of 'em then, before they ripped out pockets and made business for the tailor shops."

'TEETH' FOUND IN NEW SALES TAX

Every Citizen Obligated to Try to Halt "Chiseling"

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16.—Every purchaser is obligated under the new sales tax to see that the levy is collected, a study of the new bill, to be signed by the Governor today, revealed.

This is only one of the "teeth" provisions in the new sales tax law which is expected to increase revenue from the levy by approximately $10,000,000 in 1936. Amendments to the law have tightened evasions in paying and collecting the tax, and "chiseling" will be checked.

The consumer is subject to a fine if the tax on any purchase he makes is not collected or if he does not take the stamps. Vendors are subject to a fine of $500, and six months imprisonment if convicted of re-using sales tax stamps. The method of re-using stamps not collected by purchasers is said to have been the chief source of "chiseling" during 1935.

"Use" Tax Voted

Two companion measures of the sales tax, seek to eliminate "chiseling" by out-of-state purchases. The "use tax" places a three per cent levy on all purchases made outside of Ohio but brought here for consumption. The other measure provides for a $25 inspection fee on automobiles purchased in other states but used in Ohio. The latter measure is expected to provide $500,000 additional revenue, and estimates of the "use tax" run into four or five million dollars.

Contractors who buy supplies in other states will no longer be able to avoid the sales tax, as they will be subject to the use tax and secondly under another provision in the sales tax law, they are classed as vendors. They will be compelled to charge a sales

TALMADGE MAY RUN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(INS)—Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, who has won national attention through his vitriolic attacks on President Roosevelt and his policies, will be a candidate for the presidency if his state holds a primary.

He stated this to newspapermen when he announced he and John Henry Kirby, wealth Texas oil man, have called a national convention of Jeffersonian Democrats to meet in Atlanta the last week in January to make plans to defeat Mr. Roosevelt's renomination or reelection.

SANTA FOREVER

INDISSOLUBLE with Christmas is the spirit and presence of St. Nicholas—Santa Claus—the symbol of happiness, of the outpouring of generous hearts, a translation into actuality of the promises made to mankind at the birth in Bethlehem. Santa Claus is not merely a person around and ruddy face, framed in snow-white whiskers, his form gayly caparisoned in crimson and silver, a light-hearted old gentleman with a pack on his back with toys for little children.

The Christmas season is the time of youth and happiness and gaiety, the time of children, and for the little lurking springs of childhood remembrance which should lie within all human hearts. It commemorates the coming of a Child and of the greatest gift to the world. Inevitably it is dedicated to children and those who think the clean, sweet, unselfish thought of trustful youth.

Santa Claus is no nebulous dream. He is a real and living personality, showing from the happy faces of those who believe in Christmas in its truest sense, living and working in the hearts of those to whom giving is a joy, almost a selfish gratification, because they themselves derive from it such warm pleasure.

Pitiful, indeed, are those sour cynics who see in Christmas only its commercial aspects (as though they were more than merely a means to an end), the high-cost of gift giving, and the perversion of the Christmas-giving spirit into a sense of obligation.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS

CHRISTMAS shopping is at its height. Those who are wise are shopping now rather than later and there are many wise people in Circleville.

For many the shopping is part of the Christmas cheer. Borrowing merriment from Merry Christmas by anticipating the good time to come is good business.

Unfortunately there are those who view the shopping as a burdensome duty. They are the people who keep accurate record of gifts received last year to "pay them back" this year.

That procedure necessitates scanning the cost of gifts and neglecting the spirit of giving. People engaged in working out these debt-paying problems largely furnish the ill-will that sometimes is displayed in the crowd around the bargain counter.

But viewed from the balcony the shopping throng shows many more pleasing than unpleasant characteristics of human beings. Even those who obviously are weary, win admiration. They are making

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

EX-ALLIES HAVE SPENT MORE ON NEXT WAR THAN THEY OWE U. S. ON THE LAST

WASHINGTON—Ten years ago the ending of the European war debts hailed as a great triumph of the Harding-Coolidge Administrations. Today the real memento of the War Debts—other than Finnish payments—is a table in the Treasury Department. Mr. Mellon had it carefully inscribed with little silver plaques giving the dates when each debt agreement was signed. It was one of his prize possessions. . . . Mr. Morgenthau, his successor, has relegated it to his Treasury luncheon, where he uses it as a dining table. . . . The figures are too long to be given here, but a check on European armament expenditures will show that in most cases the ex-Allies have spent far more on the next war than they owe the United States on the last. . . . There has been some talk in State Department circles of a move to create a scholarship fund out of Finnish debt payments to educate Finnish students in the United States. The idea is permanently to strengthen the bond of friendship between the United States and the only nation which paid its bills; also to show American appreciation for that payment.

BONUS COMPROMISE

Democratic politicians have a compromise formula on the bonus which they are urging on the President. By it they hope to persuade him to reverse his stand and thus not alienate the veterans' vote. The compromise is to defer bonus payment until July 1, 1937. This would assure the vets of early funds, but would not pile the cost on the 1936 (campaign year) budget.

Merry Christmas shoppers! May their numbers increase. They are sharers of prosperity and promoters of prosperity. And those who are influenced by the true Christmas spirit will remember that for those who serve them in the stores the days before Christmas are just so many more days, only a little busier and more exacting.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

READ THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Kirk Larrabee is investigating the murder of Andrew Darrin, a middle-aged bachelor who was stabbed to death with a carving knife by the boarding house of Alice Penny. Larrabee questions Alice in detail about the seven other boarders as well as Della Randall, the maid who reported the missing knife the evening before the murder. He learns that Darrin was generally disliked and that he possessed a small fortune. Alice tells Grace, her cook, to keep a close eye on the remaining knives in the kitchen. The detective questions Alice again. Alice is amazed when Larrabee tells her she will inherit $200,000 through Darrin's will. Conrad Withers tells Alice he discovered Darrin's death before it became generally known. The first dinner at the boarding house after the murder, with Larrabee present, proves to be an ordeal. Determined to help solve the murder, Alice makes a list of anecdotes about everyone in the house.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 19

WELL, WHEN I finished my anecdotes about everyone in the house, I looked over what I had written, and discovered that I hadn't really very much to go on, except in the cases of Mrs. Starmont and Mr. Heringsway. I was a little disappointed because I thought I was so observing. I didn't want to build up a case against Mrs. Starmont, and I didn't especially want to think of Mr. Heringsway as Andrew Darrin's murderer, but there was no other way out.

Reading the list for the third time when the swinging door from the pantry suddenly opened and I jumped up as if I'd been stabbed. When I saw it was Kirk Larrabee I sat down a good deal relieved, for in that moment when I'd heard the door open I'd thought I was going to be murdered for sure.

"You look pretty much startled," he said as he drew up a chair. "I thought somebody was coming in to murder me." I answered shakily. It was too late to get the list out of the way, but I did my best. I pulled over the bath towel bundle, and put it on top of the paper, hoping Larrabee wouldn't notice the scribbling underneath.

"What's this?" He touched the long thin bundle.

"That, Lieutenant Larrabee," I said pointedly, "contains all the sharp knives in the house, except the one in my sitting room which I shall presently add to it. I'm going to sleep with it under my pillow tonight, with my door locked."

"You're sure all the knives are here?"

"Six are here, and with the one in my sitting room there will be seven." I expected him to take up the bundle and confect it himself, but he didn't. Instead he said, "Good, now take good care of them, and this—"

He moved the bundle and took up the list.

"I'd rather not have you read this, please," I exclaimed. "Don't touch these things on that paper, they're not yours, and that I didn't want him to know yet."

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

"Well, yes. I don't do it for the paper from his hands, really. But I was sitting there and hearing and praying he was gentleman enough not to read it."

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

"I see. A little amateur detective, eh?"

Mrs. Penny, that I don't know, and that I should like to know. After all you know the people in this house far better than I do. I'm handicapped from the start. What do you say we make a bargain? You let me read this and if I can, I'll tell you what I know."

Did that mean, he didn't consider me as a suspect any more? Did that mean I was quite cleared in his mind? There was the merest hint of a twinkle in his eyes and I felt better.

"Do you still think I killed Andrew Darrin?" I asked.

"I hope you didn't, Mrs. Penny. I'm almost sure you didn't. For the life of me I can't think how you took the carving knife. That's what stumps me about you. Two people have told me that you went into your sitting room after dinner, and that you stayed there. The knife was stolen between 8:25 and 8:30 from the dining room, and unless you climbed out of the window of the sitting room, and then climbed into the dining room window which was locked—"

"Climbed through the window with my figure, Lieutenant Larrabee? It's five feet to the ground, you know. Besides I've never done much climbing. I'm not so tall and I weigh 160 pounds, which Lucy thinks is too much. I suppose it is for a middle-aged woman who is five feet five inches. Kirk Larrabee weighs only 20 pounds more, and has six feet two inches of bone and muscle to carry."

"Mrs. Upham and Miss Cambridge were sitting in the living room from 8 o'clock until half past. They said the door of the sitting room didn't open during that time. Both of them saw Della knock on your door. That was after they had gone together to the dining room to take a few salted almonds. They claim they were only gone a moment from the living room around 8:25."

"I couldn't let that go by. 'What did they say about the knife?' Did either of them see it on the buffet?" I knew Lucy hadn't but I wanted to be sure about Miss Cambridge.

"Miss Cambridge said she noticed it, but Mrs. Upham didn't."

"Marcella Cambridge notices everything, and if she said the knife was there it was there. Lucy's not so observing," I said.

"So I gathered—He stopped and we both looked at each other. There was an audible squeak behind Larrabee. I knew what it was but he didn't. The door to the back stairs opens right into the kitchen, beside the electric icebox, and the third stair from the door squeaks noticeably."

"I can't believe Grace would deliberately listen to conversation she wasn't meant to hear. I spoke emphatically, but in my heart I wasn't so sure. There was the way Grace had looked at Lucy Upham only this afternoon in the kitchen, when Lucy was talking about Mrs. Starmont. Yet Grace's excuse was not so good. She had forgotten the clock and Grace forgetting her clock was something else. I was talking and watching you. If she hadn't been eavesdropping she would have come in at once."

An old nobleman, extremely wealthy and self-important, once drove up to a rural inn in Sweden and demanded of the landlord an immediate change of horses. The landlord expressed regret, but said it would be at least an hour before fresh horses could be brought up.

"This, to me!" demanded the nobleman. "Man, I demand horses immediately." Then, observing some fresh, well-groomed horses that were being led to another carriage, he asked: "For whom are these horses?"

The landlord motioned in the direction of a tall man. "They were ordered for this gentleman," he explained.

The nobleman addressed the tall man. "I say, my man, will you let me have those horses if I pay you a liberal bonus?"

"No, I intend to use them myself."

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

A picture that rates the raves of every movie fan in town—and collected a lot of them last night when it began its 2 day run at the Cliftona Theatre—is Darryl Zanuck's filmization of "Call of the Wild," the immortal Jack London classic of the Yukon gold rush.

Rich in rugged drama and clean fun, the picture exerts a powerful appeal for every member of every family—the youngsters and their dads won't have to be told for they've all thrilled to this most famous of Jack London's tales, and the love story, beautifully played by Clark Gable and Loretta Young, will insure the feminine contingent of a grand time.

ARTISTIC DIAGNOSIS

A woman went to see a doctor "Doctor," she exclaimed loudly, bouncing into the room, "I want you to say frankly what's wrong with me."

He surveyed her from head to foot.

"Madam," he said at length, "I've just three things to tell you. First, your weight wants reducing by nearly 50 pounds. Secondly, your beauty would be improved by freer use of soap and water. And, thirdly I'm an artist; the doctor lives on the next floor."

Meal Easy to Prepare And Nourishing to Eat

By MRS. MARY MORTON
MENU HINT

Creamed Codfish on Toast Points
Raw Vegetable Loaf Pumpkin Pie
Coffee Cheese

This is what I call a simple, but nourishing meal—one that is easy to prepare and good to eat. It is the type of thing the 'business' woman who comes home to get the evening meal, can negotiate without too much effort. And it will taste good. The salad and pie, of course, may be made the evening before, or the crust of the pie may be made and kept in a cold place until you want to bake it, then rolled out and put in a pie tin, filled with pumpkin filler and baked. If this is done first thing, when you reach home, the pie will be ready to serve when the rest of the meal is ready.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Creamed Codfish on Toast Points—Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt, paprika, one-half pound codfish, one egg yolk. Melt the butter, add the flour and stir till well blended. Add the milk gradually and stir till smooth and thick. Add the flaked codfish and seasonings and when thoroughly heated, the beaten egg yolk. Remove immediately and serve on toast points.

Raw Vegetable Loaf—Two cups shredded cabbage, two tablespoons dried green peppers, one table spoon pimiento, one cup chopped onion, six grated carrots, one-half cup chopped celery, one-half cup diced cucumber, one tablespoons horseradish, one-half cup butter. Mix the well-drained vegetables, salt lightly and pour over the melted butter. Chill thoroughly. The butter will harden and act as a binder. It will be possible to slice this loaf. Serve on lettuce as a salad or as a sandwich filling. The cucumber may be omitted.

FACTS AND FANCIES
Eggplant and Lamb en Casserole
One pound diced lamb shoulder, two tablespoons lard, one eggplant, one onion, finely chopped; one teaspoon parsley, two cups tomato sauce, salt and pepper, paprika. Peel eggplant and chop. Place in a baking dish. Brown lamb in hot lard and arrange on top of eggplant. Add seasonings and pour tomato juice over all. Cover and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) until done, about one hour.

Vegetable Hints
One-half cup of milk added to the water in which cauliflower is being boiled will keep the vegetable firm and fresh looking.

If you wish to remove the skins from beets with greater ease—put the beets in hot water for a short while. Then pour off the hot water and give them cold water immediately. The skins will come off quickly.

AUTO CITY ADDS FOOTBALL TITLE; GIANTS DRUBBED

Score in Pro Grid Contest is 26-7; Many Stars Started With Ohio Team

DETROIT, Dec. 16—The Lions took a seat beside the baseball playing Tigers and slugging Joe Louis today as outstanding in their fields of sport by knocking off the New York Giants for the world's football championship Sunday afternoon, 26-7.

Perserverance was the key-word of the Lion team. The team was low in the standing in mid-season but kept climbing and finally won the western half title over Green Bay and the Chicago Bears.

The Lions, coached by Fotsy Clark who starred on the grid in his college days and overseas, were impressive in their Sunday game played before 12,000 fans freezing in a snow storm.

Gutowsky, Clark, Caddell, and Parker scored the Lions' touchdowns while New York scored after Strong received a pass and weaved his way through a broken field for 40 yards.

The championship is the first gained by the Detroit players. Many of the athletes started their professional careers at Portsmouth, O. with the Spartans and, although they came close several times, never gained the title. Members of the present team who played in the Ohio city include Gutowsky, Caddell, Presnell, Clark, Schneller, G. Christensen, Emerson, Randolph, and Ebding.

All the players will receive a nice share of the gate receipts but the Lions are expected to clean up on the west coast where they will schedule a series of grid games during the winter with California collegians.

Regis Monahan, Ohio State's All-American guard, is a member of the Detroit roster.

OWENS IS RATED "BEST ATHLETE"

N. A. A. U. Sends Jesse Card Showing High Classification

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16—(NIS)—Jesse Owens, Cleveland track star, who broke three world's records and tied another during a single day last May while wearing the colors of Ohio State university, has been named the outstanding athlete in the north-eastern Ohio district of the National Amateur Athletic union.

Registration Card No. 1 for the 1936 season has been sent to Owens at Columbus by James A. Lee, district secretary. Nine other athletes also were honored for outstanding performances.

Buzz Still Playing

California Captain

Heading the University of California basketball team which has an ambitious schedule of games during the holidays in the middle-west and east, Captain Ray Olson, above, leads one of the nation's most interesting cage crews. The team has championship hopes.

JOE LOUIS RATES MAXIE BAER BEST MAN HE HAS MET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(INS)—Max Adelbert Baer, California's gentleman rancher, may step forward today and take a bow.

For of all the men Joe Louis has faced within the past year or so, he rates Maxie the best.

Being careful to point out he doesn't rate them on "their hitting—because none of them hit me hard enough to hurt me," Joe ranks eight of his victims in this wise:

1. Baer ("I had to hit Baer six times for every once I hit the others.")
2. Primo Camera ("his left hook was good, and his jabs were heavy.")
3. Lee Ramage ("he was a good boxer, but no hitter.")
4. Patsy Pernoni ("he kept heaving punches.")
5. Alex Borshauk ("he hit me my hardest punch.")
6. Paulino Uzcudun ("a little too slow covering up.")
7. Kingfish Levinsky ("he was too scared to fight.")
8. Nattie Brown ("he didn't fight at all—just kept trying not to be stopped.")

OHIO FACES MUSKINGUM

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16—(INS)—Confident of a third straight victory, Ohio State University's basketball team today embarked for New Concord, where they meet Muskingum College tonight.

Third high scorer in the Big Ten last year, Capt. Warren Whitinger, Zanesville, will be feted by former school mates and a delegation of Zanesville fans before the game.

About This And That In Many Sports

GRID PICTURES TONIGHT

Many athletes are expected to visit the high school auditorium this evening when motion pictures of two Ohio State football games will be shown under the auspices of the Kiwanis club—the time is expected to be between 7:30 and 8 o'clock and there is no admission charge—At least one member of the Ohio State coaching staff is expected to accompany the film—The pictures shown will probably be of the Indiana and Michigan games—The first half of the Notre Dame game would be acceptable but Ohio officials are not so willing to put on display the second half of the same game * * *

CHILLICOTHE IS STRONG

The showing of the high school cage team last Friday evening against the big Columbus Academy crew is still reverberating through the city's streets and in gathering places—Next Friday they face another test in traveling to Chillicothe—At a recent coaches' clinic in the Ross-co metropolis Ohio university officials branded the Chillicothe team as one of the best in the district—It is entirely possible that Jack Landrum's boys will run against an Ohio U. referee in their game, probably chesty Butch Grover or overbearing Russ Finsterwald—Chillicothe goes in for Ohio U. referees for one reason or another. * * *

John Jenkins, tough luck boy of the high school team, is not in such good shape physically—He had a banged up toe before the Academy game, then put something on his foot to help the swelling, and that burned—He'll be ready for Chillicothe, however * * *

PLAY CAPITAL FROSH

The high school varsity will be given a test Wednesday evening when it travels to east Columbus to meet the Capital university freshman team—It'll be a real game * * *

KAUBER DISAPPOINTED

Al Kauber, Ashville's genial coach, whose team plays the Tigers here Jan. 4, didn't think the game between Circleville and Academy would amount to much so he went to the Walnut-Pickaway contest—He missed something that might have benefited him this encounter here—Ashville is expected to be one of the tough games on the Red and Black schedule * * *

WILLIAMSPORT

Paper ribbons of red and green across the linen, red lighted candles, red and green nut baskets and place cards of Yuletide design formed the beautiful setting for the dinner enjoyed by Heber Chapter No. 62 Order of Eastern Star, and many out of town visitors, Thursday evening. Seated with the retiring officers and officers-elect were the installing officers and several distinguished visitors. Other members and visitors of the local chapter were seated at smaller tables.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. A. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

MASTERING BRIDGE (42)
THE AVERAGE efficiency of blind leads against suit calls may be ranked as follows, from:
1. Solid suits (either those having only top honors in sequence, or having the four top honors);
2. Suits of any length exceeding four cards, when headed by A-K-Q;
3. Truncated suits, or solid sequences (K-Q-J, Q-J-10, Q-J-10-9, J-10-9-8);
4. Sequences of three or more cards, if headed by even a low honor;
5. Sequenced honors in long suits (K-Q-X-X-X, Q-J-X-X-X, J-10-X-X-X, X-X);
6. Intermediate sequences (J-9-8-7, 10-8-7-6);
7. Fourth best card from a suit not headed by Ace or King, or by a tenace;
8. Top of nothing leads (10-8-3, 9-7-4-2, 8-5);
9. Singletons, lower than the K.
The fourth best lead is only a choice of evils against trump makes. It evidently was introduced directly from whist into bridge, without due consideration of the value at a game when the declaring side has deliberately picked a suit in which it has great strength. Bad as they are, the top of a suit headed by Q-J or J-10, or even top of nothing leads, are preferable to fourth best leads against trump calls. Remember, if you lead a supporting card from a long suit, as the 10 from 10-9-6-3, the next time the suit is led or played to follow down, instead of playing the lowest card, as if you held a doubleton, as a lead of the 10, followed by the 3 would show no more of that suit.

The longer the suit the less defensive value it has in proportion to its offensive value, when played against a suit call, due to the increased liability that declarer or dummy will ruff. A singleton Ace has four in 1,000 chances of being ruffed on its lead. There are 10 in 100 chances that the doubleton A-K will be ruffed not later than the second round. The trebleton A-K-Q has an average value of only 2.34 tricks. It may go untrumped for three rounds, but do not expect it to win more than two defensive tricks. A solid five-card suit's average defensive value is only 1.84 tricks. The value drops to 1.57 for a six-card suit, and to 1.27 for a seven-card suit. When doubling trump calls these liabilities to be ruffed must be considered.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY IS WEDNESDAY

"TINKER" MOVED UP BECAUSE OF DATE CONFLICT

Hilaire Haacker Portrays Title Role in Play; Tickets Are Available

Because of conflict with several events, the date for the Christmas play "The Tinker" at the high school has been moved from Thursday, Dec. 19, to Wednesday, Dec. 18. Tickets bearing the former date may be used for the Wednesday night performance.

The scene of this Yuletide play is in a home of a small New England town. The plot centers around the Tinker who has been employed in the Whitney's home to fix a clock. It is later revealed that the Tinker is the Whitney's rich uncle Toby.

The title role will be portrayed by Hilaire Haacker. George Rader is cast as David Whitney with the parts of Jack Whitney, his son, Ethel Whitney, his wife, and Marjorie, their daughter, played by Jack Brown, Faye Elliot, and Mary Ellen Maxey, respectively. The cast is completed with Morton Reichelderfer as Jeremy Whitney, David Whitney's drunkard brother, and Alyce Brown as Jane Seymour.

Tickets for the production may be secured from officers of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes, or from Hamilton and Ryan's Drug store, where reserved seats may be obtained before the Wednesday night performance with no extra charge made for the reservation.

grandfather is seriously ill and wishes you to come with me at once to Philadelphia."

Visit in Philadelphia

Yesterday Frederick Milne found a note in the apartment from Caleb in which the elder brother said he intended to visit his grandfather in Philadelphia in company with Dr. Green of Gracie square.

At noon the kidnap letter arrived.

Frederick immediately telephoned his mother, Mrs. Frederick Lucy Milne, who is separated from the boys' father, Caleb III, and who lives with her youngest son, Aubrey, in Woodstock, N. J.

Mrs. Milne hurried to New York and immediately went into conference with detectives. The news was also telephoned to Caleb's father in Philadelphia and his grandfather in Germantown, Pa.

The police immediately ascertained that there was no Dr. Green in Gracie square.

According to detectives, the fact that the ransom note advised the family to keep in touch with Caleb's grandfather indicated the writer had intimate knowledge of the family's financial status.

IL DUCE SEEKS MORE TERRITORY

Nations Must Go Beyond Offer, Paper Says

ROME, Dec. 16—(INS)—Premier Benito Mussolini let it be known today that any peace in Ethiopia must go far beyond the terms of the Paris plan—even though that would give him an area about twice as big as Italy.

While deferring his answer to the Franco-British proposals in a maneuver to let the League of Nations council at Geneva act upon—and probably kill—them Wednesday, Il Duce expressed a series of fundamental objections through the "inspired" press.

"Italy's rights in East Africa must be more fully recognized," wrote Virginio Gayda, frequently Mussolini's mouthpiece, in Voce D'Italia.

Must Take Another Step
"The good will of Paris and London must take another step forward."

Hinting that Mussolini would not accept the Paris plan even as a basis for negotiation, the controlled press put forth these objections:

1. "The territories conceded to Italy in Tigre, Danakil, and Ogaden provinces are smaller than those already occupied by our troops," Gayda wrote.

2. Return of the Holy City of Aksum to Ethiopia is "impossible," said Gayda, because the population of that area "surrendered spontaneously" and Italy "has assumed obligations there."

PICKAWAY-CO LEADS STATE IN PRODUCTION OF CORN

CENSUS FIGURES RISE AND FALL FOR AREA SHOW

County Had 2,153 Farms Last
Jan. 1; Average Value
Set at $9,188

Despite a reduction of 19 per cent in corn acreage between 1929 to 1934, Pickaway-co held first place in the state in corn production, according to preliminary figures for the 1935 Federal Farm census, released today by Director William L. Austin of the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce.

Ross-co was second on the list in corn production and Henry-co, third.

With the reduction in corn acreage, the report shows Pickaway-co log numbers dropped 31 per cent between April 1, 1930, and Jan. 1, 1935.

Wheat Acreage Up
Wheat acreage increased a small extent, while hay acreage increased 26 percent. Oat acreage declined 83 percent. During 1934 wheat was threshed from 59,847 acres and produced 1,145,320 bushels. Hay was harvested from 20,157 acres with a production of 21,236 tons.

Cattle increased almost one half during the five year period. The 1935 inventory of livestock included 28,925 cattle, 51,850 hogs, 17,229 sheep, 7,266 horses and 330 mules.

Pickaway-co had 2,153 farms on Jan. 1, 1935, of which 1,162 were operated by owners, 21 by managers and 970 by tenants. The entire value of the farm land and buildings in the county, as reported to the enumerators, was $19,781,591. The average size of the farms was 142.1 acres and the average value $9,188.

Average Now Lower
Under the 1930 census the value of the farm lands and buildings was listed at $24,438,039, the average value per farm was $11,985 and acreage value was $80.80 as compared to $64.66 in 1935. The average acreage in 1930 was 148.3. The 1935 figures the inventory of farms are for Jan. 1, the production items for the calendar year of 1934. In the 1930 report the inventory items are for April 1, and the production items for the calendar year of 1929.

They are heard every week day except Monday and Saturday at 4:15 p. m.

Arnold came near setting a record interlocking for the Minstrel organization.

Lum and Abner, famous hick team, are going in for personal appearances and are in Indiana all this week. (Tip for some local manager.) They'd pack them in.

Alexander Woolcott is suffering from tonsillitis and may exit from his Sunday night show at the expiration of his contract the end of this month. ... A new game is on the market, and it's called, of all things: Major Bowes' Amateur Hour. It's a table game which can be played by any number of people without losing their amateur standings. ... Eleanor Powell has recovered from her illness and is back on the CBS Tavern Fridays.

Elizabeth Rethberg made one of her all too rare appearances before the microphone Sunday. The pure soprano voice of the "world's most perfect singer" has been filling the Metropolitan for 14 years now.

Sunday before Christmas the hour will present a program by Grete Stueckgold, Kathy Meisle, Richard Crooks and Ezio Pinza. The fee for the quartet, believe it or not, totals $7,000.

JUSTICE AND POLITICS

IF an ungovernable urge for a place in the headlines was the principal motive animating Governor Hoffman in visiting Bruno Richard Hauptmann at the New Jersey state prison, as so many of his critics suggest, his purpose has been fulfilled far beyond his fondest anticipations. The governor has gained a full measure of publicity and finds himself the centre of attention. This achievement may be gratifying to him personally, but what is the reaction of thoughtful citizens and what will be the ultimate effect upon the repudiation of New Jersey justice?

It is not difficult to answer this last question. Even now there is fear that the case of Hauptmann, which should be decided by the constituted agencies of justice and in an orderly manner, is destined to become a football of politics and a means of shameless political exploitation.

If such a shocking situation develops, the responsibility will rest upon Governor Hoffman, who has not been content to let the processes of justice take their course, but has muddled the waters through his inexplicable visit to Hauptmann and his manifest encouragement of the activities of a country detective.

Governor Hoffman through his flair for sensationalism is furnishing meat and drink for the tabloids. His sense of the proprieties being somewhat warped, however, it may not occur to him that he is making a travesty of New Jersey justice and is creating the danger that this case, one of the most important in the criminal history of the country, will end in a fiasco.

OPPORTUNITY FOR DARK HORSE

GOVERNOR ALF LONDON, of the dry state of Kansas, will be fortunate if the finger of death has not been placed upon his blossoming political aspirations just at a time when the prospect is rosy.

Searching about for a candidate worthy of their approbation, the delegates to the annual convention of the Anti-Saloon League, meeting in St. Louis, have singled out Governor Landon for this dubious distinction.

Searching about for a candidate alone among all the field, the governor rises to their concept of an ideal candidate and, when the proper time comes, will be the recipient of their support.

If Governor Landon can withstand the blighting effects of this endorsement, he must indeed be a stalwart chap and able to bear up blithely in the face of the most severe adversities.

With Landon facing a cloud of disfavor in the wicked wet areas, Colonel Frank Knox flirting with the soldiers' bonus and

WASHINGTON—The blow-up of Major George Berry's NRA Congress bodes ill for the chances of reviving the Blue Eagle at the coming session of Congress.

What was left after the Supreme Court finished its mauling, expires April 1. And there is little sentiment on Capitol Hill to continue even the remnants, to say nothing of restoring old powers.

Progressives as well as Democrats and Republicans are sour on the torpedoed "experiment."

The only group making any pretence of friendship toward the NRA is the A. F. of L. And this cordiality is chiefly on the surface. With the Wagner Labor Disputes act in their pocket, most labor leaders are satisfied to let things ride as they are.

Further, the more militant Labor leaders favor new legislation along the lines of the Guffey coal act in other words, "little NRAs" for each basic industry.

The apparel and textile unions already have announced their intention to offer such measures.

Insiders are wagering that the NIRA will be allowed to lapse. If any legislation is enacted, it will transfer the few remaining NRA powers to the Federal Trade Commission.

In fact, Berry himself is said to be secretly working on a bill to do just that, if all hope for the NRA vanishes.

Privately, New Dealers are not taking too seriously the collapse of Berry's attempt to pump new life into the Blue Eagle. From the very start the inner circle viewed his plan as a "trial balloon."

So it looks like "fini la guerre" for the Blue Eagle.

BANKHEAD

Rex Tugwell's Resettlement Administration operates a project at Jasper, Alabama, the state which is represented in Washington by Senator John Bankhead and his brother Representative William Bankhead, father of the glamorous Tullulah.

In tribute to their achievement, Professor Tugwell decided to name the Jasper project "Bankhead". However, the New Deal, in seeking to eradicate the name "Hoover" from Boulder Dam, had ruled that no project could be named for a living man.

So the Japer project has been named "Bankhead" for the Bankhead's father, now deceased, whose name also was John.

incurring the wrath of the Economy League, Senator Borah turning heretic on the control of business, Senator Vandenberg accused of undue friendliness with certain New Deal policies, there remains only Mr. Hoover.

But Ohio Republicans decided only a few days ago that they did not even want to hear the name of Mr. Hoover mentioned. And this sentiment, it is feared, will be echoed in many quarters throughout the broad face of the land.

The happiest land, no doubt, is where there is no oil and not an atom of ore.

It isn't wise to give the kid a great man's name. He may not live up to it. And the great man may not, either.

MURDER UPSTAIRS
By ADAM BLISS

READ THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Kirk Larabee is investigating the murder of Andrea Darian, a middle-aged bachelor who was stabbed to death with a carving knife as he slept in the boarding house of Alice Penny. After questioning Alice, her seven remaining boarders, the maid and cook in detail, Larabee learns that Darian was generally disliked and that he possessed a small fortune. Alice is amazed when the detective tells her she will inherit $200,000 through Darian's will. While Larabee and Alice are talking, their surprise Grace, the cook, listening at the door. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 20

"WHAT WAS the squeak anyway?" Larabee was asking me after we had found Grace at the door and she had gone upstairs.

"The third stair from the bottom squeaks. Warped."

"Always?"

"Always."

I'd tried to fix it, but failed.

"The sitting room is more secluded than the kitchen. Let's go there," he suggested.

I picked up the towel-wrapped bundle, and followed him through the dining room, into the hall where Sergeant Barker was standing looking at himself in the mirror and then to my sitting room. The carving knife was gone. The room wasn't in order as it hadn't been cleaned all day, but the absence of the knife gave me more assurance.

I couldn't have sat and talked to Larabee that night as I did, if that knife had been staring me in the face.

I was still thinking about Grace as I sat down—not in my usual chair in front of the desk—Larabee had appropriated that, but in the same chair I had occupied that morning when he was questioning me. He had taken my list and comments from his side coat pocket, and was reading it. There was nothing for me to do but wait, with my bundle of knives on my lap. I wasn't angry—I couldn't be angry with him if I tried. I decided—and yet I was uneasy.

That hairpin of Janet's, Mr. Withers' confidence into this finger-nail, Lucy's trips to her Doctor Rudeman. I shouldn't have put down anything on paper. I should have kept everything in my head.

He finished at last and looked up, but he didn't hand back the paper.

"I shall have to ask you to explain a few things on this paper, Mrs. Penny. The hairpin you found in Darian's room for instance."

Lamely I told him, glossing over the incident as best I could.

"And where did you put this hairpin?" He shot back at me, his brows almost meeting over the bridge of his nose.

"I threw it away. On the lawn."

It sounded feeble, but he didn't scold me. That fact gave me a little more confidence.

"And Conrad Withers' visit to Darian's room?"

Well, I told him that, too, and how Mr. Withers had come up to my room about five o'clock to tell me there was no getting out of it. He'd find out himself eventually anyway from Mr. Withers.

He nodded when I finished. "I knew he had gone in, Mrs. Penny, but I didn't know when. The only fingerprints we found on that door this morning were three sets: Withers', both on the outside and the inside of the knob, Della Randall's superimposed on Withers' fingerprints on the outside of the door knob only. Yours superimposed on Della's on the outside and inside. So you see, I knew that Withers had been in the room sometime, and he denied being there. I couldn't break him down this morning. I assume, and you'll assume, too, that the murderer wiped the knob clean on both inside and out after his or her work was done, unless you are such a good housekeeper that your knobs are polished every day."

"They aren't. Once or twice a year maybe, we go over them, and wash them with soap and water. The last time we did it was around September."

"He coughed. 'I thought so because on all the other knobs in the house we found masses of fingerprints.' 'That means, then, that Mr. Withers went into Andrew Darian's room after the murderer left it?' I asked rather shakily.

"I don't know, Mrs. Penny, but I'm working on that theory. I can't see, if Mr. Withers is the murderer, why he carefully wiped the knobs and then forgot that he'd left his own fingerprints on them. Unless he was nervous of course, and touched the knobs, both inside and out, after he had cleaned them, which isn't logical. Your fingerprints and Della's are natural. His aren't. I didn't tell him about his prints this morning, but I tried to get the information out of him by other methods. He didn't crack, but I could see he was very nervous. Is he usually nervous?"

"He's been this last three months. I mean, not nervous, but changed a little."

"Have you any idea why he wanted to borrow money from Darian?"

"Not the slightest. He wouldn't tell me."

Larabee was silent for a moment.

"I see we're going to get along very well, Mrs. Penny. Now another thing. That connecting door from Darian's room to Hemingway's. The door in the closet—"

"You know about that, too?" I exclaimed. "Before you read what I had written?"

He said he had. That he had found it as soon as he searched Darian's room.

"Did Hemingway ever mention it to you?"

"Never, and I didn't tell him about it when he took the room."

"And yet, the hinges of the bolt were oiled, and clean. There was no rust on any of the hardware on either side of the panel. The bolts when we found them were both shot, on Darian's side and on Hemingway's. Strange, isn't it?" He looked at me piercingly.

"Strange," I repeated after him. "What did Mr. Hemingway tell you about the door?" I was dying to know that.

"He admitted having used it occasionally, but not for the past few days. Certainly not last night. Both he and Darian, he claimed, kept their bolts drawn. Sometimes Darian would rap on the closet wall, and then Hemingway would come into his room by way of the closet panel. That's all Hemingway would say."

"Still Mr. Hemingway might have slipped the bolt on Mr. Darian's side, some time during the early evening, might have gone into his room later, that way, and afterwards drawn it again, and come out the hall and into his own room, through his own door—I'm not saying he did, but there's a possibility."

"There is, a strong one." He took a cigarette, tapped it on the desk and put it to his lips, before he thought to offer me one. I refused it, however. I wasn't as nervous as I had been that morning.

"But, Mrs. Penny, the most important thing on this paper," he said after he had taken a long, deep lung full of smoke, "is what Withers told you about the voice—if he is sure he heard it."

"He did, I'm sure. He swore to me that he heard a voice which he thought to be Mr. Darian's bid him enter the room. If you knew Mr. Withers, Lieutenant Larabee, you'd realize he doesn't enter rooms without invitations. He's very—self-effacing, and polite."

The rain had started again, and was beating down on the window back of me, noisily. I felt sorry for the officer who was pacing up and down in front of the house. There was one at the back, too, but he was in the shelter of the garage.

Larabee got up and drew aside the curtain, looked out into the rain, and with a sigh came back to his seat. "If Withers went into Darian's room a little after 6:30, as he told you, and heard that voice, it was not Darian speaking to him, for Darian was dead, and he had been dead for some hours. Doctor Maxwell, the police surgeon who examined him, can't place the exact hour of his death, but says it could have taken place anywhere from 11 to 3 in the morning. If we could find the exact time of the murder we'd be on a surer ground, but we haven't been able to yet. That's why we're working on the time when the knife was stolen from the dining room buffet."

My eyes went from his face to the desk. Unconsciously I was searching for the knife there.

THE LAST WORD

Creep into thy narrow bed,
Creep, and let no more be said!
Vain thy onset! all stands fast,
Thou thyself must break at last.

Let the long contention cease!
Geese are swans, and swans are geese.
Let them have it how they will!
Thou art tired; best be still.

They out-talk'd thee, hiss'd thee,
tore thee,
Better men fared thus before thee;
Fired their ringing shot and pass'd!
Hotly charged—and sank at last.

Charge once more, then, and be numb!
Let the victors when they come,
When the forts of folly fall,
Find thy body by the wall!

THE EARTH AND MAN

A little sun, a little rain,
A soft wind blowing from the west—
And woods and fields are sweet again
And warmth within the mountain's breast.

So simple is the earth we tread,
So quick with love and life her frame,
Ten thousand years have dawned and fled,
And still her magic is the same.

A little love, a little trust,
A little impulse, a sudden dream,
And life as dry as desert dust
Is fresher than a mountain stream.

So simple is the heart of man,
So ready for new hope and joy;
Ten thousand years since it began
Have left it younger than a boy.

How to Care for Feet To Prevent Chilblains

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE CIRCULATORY system is not equally efficient in all of us. There are some people who are predisposed to trouble due to the peculiar arrangement or structure of the arteries.

Particularly is this due to the feet and toes. It is natural that if there is such a peculiar sort of an arterial system it would manifest its worst effects in the extremities, the point farthest away from the heart.

People who are inclined to have numbness of the extremities in the summer time are likely to find these conditions exaggerated in the winter.

The well-known English medical journal, The London Lancet, identifies two forms of chilblains which it calls "acro-cyanosis"—one occurring in fat women between the ages of 15 and 25, and the other occurring in middle-aged thin individuals of both sexes.

In connection with the condition we find certain constitutional signs—a harsh skin which feels cold to the touch, with bluish or purplish discoloration. The patients are also subject to headaches and are extremely sensitive to cold.

How Chilblains Develop
The course of the development of chilblains is, first, contraction of the terminal arteries under the direct influence of cold. People with the constitutional arterial system which has been described above, will naturally be particularly susceptible. After the arteries have contracted, they tend to react by dilatation. The reaction becomes excessive, an effort on the part of Nature to overcome the initial local anemia and the result is blood stasis with heat, redness, swelling, pain and itching.

In the group of overweight individuals, it has been thought that some thyroid disturbance is present and many physicians have treated it with appropriate remedies.

In the extreme form which physicians usually see, the itching and scratching has brought on ulcerated areas or a chronic form of irritation of the skin, in which attacks follow each other during the winter months.

In treatment and prevention proper foot covering will help to insure an even circulation and an even temperature for the feet. This may seem like a self-evident remark, but as one observes the number of silk stockings and low slippers worn by women on cold, slushy, winter days, it is a wonder that the entire female population does not have chilblains.

A woolen sock is the best foot covering the year round.

The ulcerated areas or scratches should be treated with a stimulating antiseptic, such as iodine, and hot foot baths, with vigorous self-massage, will go far to bring foot comfort in the winter.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

A reader, Carl Swadener, of Belleville, O., desires us to comment on "women taking men's places, thereby causing widespread unemployment."

Since I am a man, and a woman readily could replace me if she were so suited, I have requested a woman to give the woman's point of view.

This is what she says:

"Is there any difference between the woman forced out into the world and the man? I know that it is said of a woman that her place is in the home. Suppose there would be no home if she did not work? Suppose even more, that she literally would starve?"

"Marriage is not always available. Nor does a man desire as a helpmate a woman who has not struggled. He looks with suspicion on her. The battle will be hard enough even if she knows every angle of the terrific economic struggle."

"To deprive a woman of her economic rights would be such cruelty that many women would destroy themselves. Their last hope would be gone."

WHAT IS TROUBLE?

The woman continues:

"Your reader confuses present man-made economic maladjustment with basic truths."

"Why are many men unemployed, while many women are employed?"

"Your reader may say, 'Because women will work for less.'"

"Then I say, 'A woman is forced to work for less. If you men would get to fundamentals, you would learn why.'"

"Very well, what are fundamentals?"

"It is not the employment of women that is causing unemployment for men, but the unbalanced economic system. As long as the present monopolistic cut-throat competitive system lasts, workers will bear the brunt."

"If the reader would find employment for 11 million men—and goodness knows how many unemployed women—he must aid in seeing that the profits of production are so distributed that all will share. Otherwise, the field of employment for both men and women will continue to narrow,

and the standard of living will decline with it."

"PLAY" WOMEN

My informant adds:

"Surely, the critics of women in employment would not desire them to become parasites. There are too many women parasites now—wives who have no need to work. They play at society, or even at politics, jabbing ridicule at every forward step, actually trying to push their working sisters farther down the scale of life."

"I cannot believe the average woman will return to the state of life in which she was nothing more than a child-bearer and a cook. However worthy those objectives are (and every woman yearns for them), life holds more for women. Women, as well as men, have minds. And they, too, are crushed by the same fate that strikes down men. Thus, they, too, must stand up and fight!"

"But not until man recognizes woman as a fellow human being and joins common interest with her for economic and social salvation will unemployed men and women cease to walk the streets and the fields."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. A. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

IS A SMALL SLAM POSSIBLE?

A SMALL SLAM is not often bid against an adverse no trump call, but today we have an excellent example of such a case. North had a large contract on his hands, but he certainly played the cards of his side with great skill. The gallery watched his work with great interest, questioning among themselves whether or not the contract could be fulfilled.

Bidding went: South, 1-No Trump; West, 1-No Trump, in an attempt to stave off an adverse game call, or to encourage partner's bidding in case he held anything worth showing; North, 2-Spades; South, 3-Spades, having no idea how good partner was; North, 4-Spades; South, a conventional 5-No Trumps, to show three Aces and the K's of both suits previously bid by North and South, leaving it to North to bid a small or a grand slam. He bid 6-Spades and West doubled.

The opening lead was the 3 of clubs, marking West with three cards of that suit, and later on enabling declarer to count just what the doubled held. Dummy's Ace won, leaving both dummy and declarer with two losers in clubs. Hoping for an even break in trumps, declarer won the next two tricks with the K and Q of spades. East showed out on the second round, marking West's original holding of three spades.

Dummy ran off two winning hearts. On the second one declarer let go one of his losing clubs. The Ace of diamonds was led, to enable dummy to ruff itself back on a diamond. The J of hearts was led. West's 1-No Trump had announced possession of the Q, and he covered with it. Declarer ruffed. Dummy was put in through ruffing a low diamond. On dummy's good 9 of hearts declarer discarded his last club. Now declarer was able to count just one more diamond in West's hand. Another ruff of diamonds by dummy must establish declarer's Q. If West held the lone K, as expected. Declarer led a club two dummy and ruffed, took next to his last trump. Each player was down to his last three cards.

Declarer led one of his diamonds. Dummy's last trump won. West's K fell and declarer's Q became good. The long heart was led from dummy. West was trapped. He held only the J of trumps and the K of clubs. If he trumped, declarer's Ace would win the twelfth trick and his good diamond would yield a grand slam. If West did not trump, declarer would discard his good diamond and the last trick must be won by the Ace of trumps. North not only fulfilled his small slam contract, but made a trick over.

UGHT PROBE DEFEAT

Franklin-Co Grand Jury Sift-

ed Attempt

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16—Three members of the state legislature were summoned before the Franklin-co grand jury today for questioning concerning the charges of Rep. G. J. Harter, Democrat, of Akron, that Francis W. Poulson, state Democratic chairman, sought to trade state jobs for votes in the legislature.

J. Freer Bittinger, Ashland,
speaker of the house, and Rep.
Clingman Jackson, Youngstown, appeared before the jury this morning. Rep. Harter was to appear this afternoon.

Harter charged Poulson offered state jobs to induce members to vote against a resolution proposing a legislative investigation of the state liquor department.

Donald J. Hoskins, Franklin-co prosecuting attorney, stated Poulson requested the grand jury investigation. Harter has declared he is "ready to move" his assertions that favoritism and irregularity prevail in the liquor department.

Harter said Poulson promised Don John Hewitt, Democrat of Mahoning, jobs in exchange for a vote against Harter's resolution proposing an investigation.

A unique method of presenting the Carol was centered about
"Adeste Fidelis" which was hum-opening and closing of the program.

The songs which were especially appealing to the large audience were "Silent Night," "O, Little

The presentation, which was a novel Yuletide performance, was under the capable direction of Miss Marjorie Priest, music supervisor of schools. Wahnta Barnhart played the piano accompaniment.

3 CITIES BIDDING FOR GOP CONFAB

Chicago, Kansas City, and Cleveland Send Spokesmen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(INS)—
Representatives of Chicago, Kansas City and Cleveland today officially invited Republicans to stage their presidential convention in their cities next year.

The virtues of each city were outlined by civic leaders at the meeting of the Republican national committee, which will finally vote on the site.

Mayor Edward Kelly, of Chicago, told the committee members that his city will give "you the most hospitable convention you have ever had."

"I will personally see to it," the mayor said, "that every delegate will get the same treatment that he expects in his own home."

Albert D. Lasner, another Chicago spokesman, informed the committee that the Chicago citizens committee will guarantee the Republicans $150,000 should they come to the Illinois metropolis.

U. S. WILL OFFER NEW SERIES OF BONDS JANUARY 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(INS)—
A new series of U. S. savings bonds in small denominations will be offered for sale through the postal service beginning January 1, was announced at the treasury
today.

The issue is virtually identical with the 1935 series which were termed "baby bonds." However, in its announcement of the new issues the treasury did not refer to them as "baby bonds."

The securities are to be issued in denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000. These figures representing security values after 10 years. Prices of the bonds were announced as $75 for each $100 maturity value, with corresponding prices for the other maturity values.

The first issue of the "baby bonds," which were put on the market last March 1, was sold to the amount of $178,718,250, representing a maturity value of $238-291,000.

Uncle Says Youth May Have

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(INS)—
G-men and crack New York detectives swung into action today in a search for kidnapers who are believed to have abducted 23-year-old Caleb Jones Milne, IV, scion of one of Philadelphia's oldest and most aristocratic families.

Conflicting theories were offered to explain young Milne's strange disappearance from his home on Saturday, but the youth's 18-year-old brother, Frederick, received a special delivery letter, postmarked from Poughkeepsie, yesterday, which read:
"We have your brother in the country. Keep in touch with your grandfather in Philadelphia. Keep a large amount of money on hand."

Silence Maintained
The federal men, the detectives and Milne's relatives all maintained silence on the subject of his disappearance.

The young man's grandfather, Caleb Jones Milne, 2d, wealthy retired textile manufacturer, could not be reached, while his uncle, Warner Milne, parried all questions with:
"Perhaps my nephew went out on a party."

From all that could be ascertained, however, there was little of hilarity in the circumstances immediately preceding Milne's disappearance.

A strange telephone call, it is said, reached him in the studio apartment he shared with his brother, Frederick.

square," the voice on the phone is reported to have said. "Your (INS)—Bruno Richard Haupt-mann's death warrant was signed today.

Attorney General David T. Wil-entz affixed his signature to the warrant formally notifying Col.
Mark O. Kimberling, principal keeper of the state, that the convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby is to die during the week of Jan. 13.

After the document is signed by Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., it will be turned over to Kimberling.

CIRCLEVILLE HOLIDAY BUSINESS IS BOOMING

Business is booming in Circleville.

A skeptical person need only to make a trip uptown to become convinced that Circleville buyers are actually buying.
Saturday night the business district was crowded with heavily-loaded shoppers, and Monday many more were going through the stores to make their choices from splendid stocks.

Not since the Christmas of 1929 have Circleville store managers reported such volume of business.

There is no need for a person to leave Circleville to buy Christmas presents. Prices are lower, and bargains are better in Circleville.

Mill-st., died in Berger hospital Sunday at 2:45 p. m. a few minutes after giving birth to an 8-pound son.

The infant, reported "fair" by hospital attaches, is Mrs. Cook's third child, two daughters, Sara, Jane, 13, and Rosemary, 10, surviving with their father.

Mrs. Cook's death came as a shock to her many friends.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by Mader & Ebert.

Mrs. Cook was born in Circleville
April 5, 1902 a daughter of John F. and Mary Stakley Mavis.
She married George E. Cook,
Sept. 29, 1920.

Besides her husband and three children, Mrs. Cook is survived by her parents; sister, Miss Maggie Mavis and three brothers, George F., Walter E. and Frederick W., all of this city, and a brother, William A. of Londonderry.

Mrs. Cook was active in the work of Trinity Lutheran church.

SHORT ILLNESS FATAL TO ELMER HELVERING

Illness of complications since
Dec. 2 caused death at 8:30 p. m.
Saturday of Elmer Helvering, 77, Washington-twp farmer. He was a native of Pickaway-co and a brother of Mrs. T. R. Bell of Poland, O.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Albaugh Co.
chapel with burial in Forest cemtery.

Mr. Helvering was born Nov.
10, 1858, a son of David and Mary Morris Helvering. He never married.

The following nieces and nephews also survive, Turney and Clifford Pontious, William and Clarence Helvering, Mrs. William
Weller and Mrs. John Groce.

Seeks Ellsworth

REPLACING Russell Shaw, whose attempted flight to deliver a plane to be used in the search for the missing explorer, Lincoln Ellsworth, ended in a crash, Dick Merrill, veteran airlines pilot, is pictured above at Kansas City, Mo. Merrill planned to fly to Magelena, Chile, near the tip of South America,
there to meet Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer, leader of the search.

FIREMEN IN LAST PLEA FOR TOYS

Wednesday Set as Deadline for Their Acceptance

A notice to forgetful residents was issued Monday morning by city firemen.

"They asked all persons who have toys to donate for their rebuilding campaign to bring them to the department before Wednesday night. They explained this deadline would give them an opportunity to repair the toys in time for the distribution on Christmas eve.

MEXICO NEARING INTERNAL FIGHT

President Cardenas and Ex-
Chief Calles at Odds

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16—(INS)—The government of President Lazaro M. Cardenas took elaborate military precautions today to prevent threatened disorders in the fast growing political storm centering around the return to Mexico of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, whose opponents charge he is plotting a coup to reinstate himself as the country's "strong man."

All motor cars entering or leaving the capital were searched thoroughly, heavy troop patrols guarded all gateways to the city.
The home of Gen. Calles was reportedly virtually surrounded by an armed guard.

Headed by 50 labor organizations in the federal district, a strong movement was under way to expel Gen. Calles from the country. He arrived here only last week after a self-imposed exile in California.

Political observers forecast a "clean-out" of all Callista elements from the government and the army. Expulsion of ten Calles followers from congress was expected momentarily.

Meanwhile Gen. Calles and his followers began to fight their opposition. Gen. Calles, a former president, applied for an injunction against the expulsion from Mexico of Gen. Jose Maria Tapia, former chief of staff and allied with Calles, who was ordered arrested and expelled yesterday as the government launched its drive
the former "strong man."

FIREMEN OUT OF LUCK

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 16—City firemen have been working for weeks to make hundreds of kiddies happy on Christmas day with rebuilt toys—but Christmas will not be so merry for the firemen.

In making out the payrolls Saturday the city auditor found there was only sufficient money to pay the firemen for about eight days this month. There will be no further pay during December.

APPEAL HEARING DEC. 23

Judge Dechant Officially Postponed Trial Because of Leist Illness

Circleville may see an unprecedented state of affairs when 1936 finally arrives with a defeated candidate for mayor retaining his office past the legal time for him to serve.

Unless something surprising happens the contest for the office will not be decided until after January 1. The law reads, it is pointed out, that the incumbent remains in office until such a contest is settled.

Hearing Is Delayed
The hearing will not get under way until next Monday. If it will, it will be a landmark case.

It will be a landmark case
if, however, Judge Dechant and then resumed. Judge Dechant
B. Dechant of Lebanon, Wash-co, will be on the bench.

He was in Circleville Monday officially postponing the trial of the case because of the illness of C. A. Leist, attorney for Mayor W. E. Cady.
Cady's foe is William J. Graham, Republican, who has been declared by the election board to be the next mayor since he won when a recount gave him three more votes than Mr. Cady.

May Carry Higher

If Judge Dechant decides in favor of Mr. Cady, Mr. Graham will probably petition for a supreme court hearing; if the court favors
Mr. Graham, then Mr. Cady's lawyers may carry up the appeal.

Appointment of safety and service directors will be delayed until the election fight is finally concluded, whenever that may be.

DONAHEY TO PICK MAN TO SUCCEED LATE OHIO JUDGE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16—(INS)—
Choice of Ohio's senators for federal judge for the southern district to succeed the late Judge Benson Hough, may be announced within ten days by Sen. A. V. Don-ahey, it was learned here today.

A reliable source said Sen.
Robert J. Bulkley will let Dona-hey recommend the new judge who will be appointed by President Roosevelt.

Donahey was in Washington
but was expected here next week for the holidays. He has not indicated who he favors for the appointment, but Judge Will P.
Stephenson of the state supreme court was reported in some quarters as having the pole position.

PICTURES MAY AID BRUNO IN LAST APPEAL

Attorneys Considering Placing Action Shots of Wilentz Before Court

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(INS)—Grimly, stolidly the forces of life and death today began their last, great battle for the soul of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

While the convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby clung desperately to the last faint glimmers of hope in his death house cell in Trenton, N. J., his attorneys gathered gravely in Somerville to confer on what will be the ultimate effort to save the German carpenter from the electric chair—an appeal to the New Jersey court of pardons.

One of the defense attorneys will be selected to make the official application to the court of pardons.

Other Plans Studied

The others then will busy themselves with formulating other plans to aid the condemned man.

One of these plans, according to information reaching the Evening Journal, calls for the carpenter to plead his own cause to the court of pardons through the medium of talking pictures.

From a miniature screen in the state capitol building at Trenton, the Journal says it has been advised, the movies of Hauptmann under the relentless cross-examination of Attorney General David T. Wilentz at his trial in Flemington will be shown to the members of the court.

These pictures, now showing in a Broadway theatre, show the carpenter being cajoled and harassed by Wilentz. At one point Hauptmann, livid, appears almost on the verge of springing at Wilentz.

The Journal says it learned from authentic sources that the majority of the eight members of the court of pardons would not consent to personal pleading on the part of Hauptmann, in spite of the supposed intention of Governor Harold Hoffman, a member of the court, to present him before them.

MARY RUSK

No need to tell the experienced housekeeper how much her little jars of jam and jelly and her fruit cakes and candies are appreciated as gifts! But each year the accessories for making such gifts even more attractive are increasing in number and are widely available. Your department store or the paper novelty store will have rolls of waxed paper. Such paper is essential to fruit cake baking, to lining the candy box, to wrapping certain pieces of candy such as caramels, taffy, soft fondants.

At the same counters you will find cellulose film in white and colors, sold in rolls and packages. This is also excellent for wrapping candy pieces and cakes. And for tying up little jars of jam, or any package of food. Ribbons made of the same interesting substance, in various widths, some of it gummed so that it seals a package at the same time it adds a decorative ribbon touch, are sold in rolls at the same counter.

ASSORTED PAPERS

Silver and gold papers, papers printed with Christmas decorative detail, seals, figured ribbons, stickers with stars and other holiday emblems on them are available in such quantity now that there is no excuse for sending a gift in a dull wrapping and one which is tied up without imagination.

For your fruit cakes and the other small gifts from your kitchen equip yourself with a supply of these charming Christmas accessories. You need a good pair of scissors, a ruler, too, will save paper and help give professional looking packages. And then choose your papers and cords and ribbons with some definite scheme in mind. Why not silver packages—either of paper or silver cellulose film, tied with blue ribbon on which little stars appear, or gold packages with crimson ribbon, or green cellulose film packages tied with holly patterned ribbon, or white packages tied with gold cord and a few gold paper stars pasted on the package.

Try to get some real holly, too, so that a small sprig of this holiday plant may be fastened in each package you give away. Or a tiny bit of pine or mistletoe, or holly berries. These little touches make the gift and add to its

LITTLE four-year-old Gloria Mae Orlandi of Datzell, Ill., has assumed one of the last prerogatives of man—she is a confirmed pipe smoker. For more than a year Gloria has been combining dolls, toys and pipes. She smokes as many as a dozen pipefuls per day, and her father, Dominick Orlandi, PWA worker, is proud of his daughter because she never has been sick in her life.

ing the pictures, however, it was said.

Another of the defense plans, it is said, calls for an application for a new trial on the grounds of newly discovered evidence. The nature of this evidence is being carefully guarded, but from one source it was reported one of the items which may be brought up is a contention that Amandus Hochmuth, chief eye-witness against Hauptmann, had applied before the trial to the welfare department in New York for a pension because he was partly blind.

SALES TAX TOKENS BEING USED FOR "ANYTHING BUT"

DENVER, (INS)—"Saw toothed tokens" may be the cure for headaches that have beset Charles M. Armstrong and others holding similar jobs in states with fractional sales taxes.

Armstrong is state treasurer of Colorado. Among his other duties is that of supplying sales tax "tokens." The tokens are worth one-fifth of a cent each and are supposed to be used only in payment of the 2 per cent tax sales.

When the tax on a sale totals a cent or more, regular United States currency is used. Hence, Armstrong reasoned at the outset of the sales tax program, five tokens would be the maximum number any one person would have in his possession at one time. Figuring the population of Colorado at an even one million, he ordered $5,000,000 tokens, enough to give every resident of the state the necessary number.

But the first five million was only a drop in the bucket. So many tokens, disappeared from circulation, that merchants pleaded for more, threatening to refuse collection of the tax unless they were supplied.

Uses to which the handy aluminum pieces were being put were found to be many and varied. They provided stakes for inexpensive bridge and crap games. Ladies used them as ornaments for hats and dresses. One man, covering a shack with tarpaper found that the tokens, slightly smaller than a 50-cent piece square with rounded corners and having a small hole in the center, were just what he needed to fasten the paper to the structure.

"We didn't figure on the pack rat instinct," Armstrong admits. "Kids collect tokens on strings

How many times has a headache ruined your day's work? Users of Alka-Seltzer say that Alka-Seltzer gives unusually prompt and effective relief from Headache, Fatigue, Muscular, Rheumatic, and Sciatic Pains.

Alka-Seltzer contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) for pain relief. Its vegetable and mineral alkalizers correct the cause when due to excess acid.

Grand Opera to Return To Radio Next Saturday

NBC With Milton Cross as Narrator to Present Lohengrin from New York Stage

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—Again radio listeners throughout the world are to be the invited guests at the Metropolitan Opera's Saturday matinees, commencing next Saturday.

Again, as since the historic first Metropolitan Opera broadcast on Christmas Day, 1931, these complete performances will be broadcast from coast to coast and beyond to Hawaii over NBC's combined WEAF and WJZ networks, and they will be short-wave for listeners all over the world.

The opera to be heard in this season's inaugural broadcast will be Richard Wagner's "Lohengrin," with Lotte Lehmann and Lauritz Melchior in the two leading roles of Elsa and Lohengrin. The performance will be under the direction of Artur Bodansky.

The broadcast will commence at 1:45 p. m., E.S.T., and will extend to the last note of the finale. During this first Saturday matinee broadcast, Edward Johnson, new general manager of the Metropolitan Opera association, will make a brief address to the radio audience.

Milton J. Cross, veteran NBC announcer who has announced the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts from the beginning, again will be at the microphone to announce each act and comment upon the plot and action of the stage presentation.

The first night show started its sixth year on the air last Friday night. Joe Cook is expected back on the air some time next month. The opening of May Wine, Sigmund Romberg's latest operetta, was postponed from Tuesday to Thursday night so it would not interfere with his broadcast, and from his attending. Lily Pons has signed to do another picture for RKO. Gladys Swarthout displayed gameness recently by boarding a plane in a blinding rainstorm to keep a concert date in a distant city. threaded through the holes. One youngster boasted he had 700. A grown man I overheard talking in a drug store the other night admitted he had 500. The merchants eagerly offered to buy them, but he refused, said he liked to save 'em.

Then, came a suggestion to Armstrong's office. Put sharp, uneven edges on the tokens.

'TEETH' FOUND IN NEW SALES TAX

Every Citizen Obligated to Try to Halt "Chiseling"

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16—Every purchaser is obligated under the new sales tax to see that the levy is collected, a study of the new bill, to be signed by the Governor today, revealed.

This is only one of the "teeth" provisions in the new sales tax law which is expected to increase revenue from the levy by approximately $10,000,000 in 1936. Amendments to the law have tightened evasions in paying and collecting the tax, and "chiseling" will be checked.

The consumer is subject to a fine if the tax on any purchase he makes is not collected or if he does not take the stamps. Vendors are subject to a fine of $500, and six months imprisonment if convicted of re-using sales tax stamps. The method of re-using stamps not collected by purchasers is said to have been the chief source of "chiseling" during 1935.

"Use" Tax Voted

Two companion measures of the sales tax, seek to eliminate "chiseling" by out-of-state purchases. The "use tax" places a three per cent levy on all purchases made outside of Ohio but brought here for consumption. The other measure provides for a $25 inspection fee on automobiles purchased in other states, but used in Ohio. The latter measure is expected to provide $500,000 additional revenue, and estimates of the "use tax" run into four or five million dollars.

Contractors who buy supplies in other states will no longer be able to avoid the sales tax, as they will be subject to the use tax and secondly under another provision in the sales tax law, they are classed as vendors. They will be compelled to charge a sales tax on all supplies going into construction.

The use tax bill has been passed by both houses, but is awaiting reconsideration in the Senate, and the fee for inspection of automobiles has been passed in the House. Farmers will have to charge a sales tax on goods sold at road side stands.

FIVE TRESPASSERS FINED

Five negroes were fined $10 and costs each Saturday afternoon by Harold Eveland, justice of peace, on trespassing charges filed by Howard Blue, farmer on the Cliff Miller farm near the Sturn & Dillard plant.

Those arrested were Olester, Anderson, Alphonso Atchenson, and Gail Hairston, all of Columbus, and Simon Bradley and Clarence Johnson, both of Circleville.

All settled their accounts except Johnson and he was committed to the county jail. The men were arrested by Clarence Francis, game protector.

TALMADGE MAY RUN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(INS)—Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, who has won national attention through his vitriolic attacks on President Roosevelt and his policies, will be a candidate for the presidency if his state holds a primary.

He stated this to newspapermen when he announced he and John Henry Kirby, wealthy Texas oil man, have called a national convention of Jeffersonian Democrats to meet in Atlanta the last week in January to make plans to defeat Mr. Roosevelt's renomination or reelection.

MERCURY AGAIN AT 32

For the fourth consecutive day the lowest temperature reading for Circleville was 32 degrees. The highest reading taken by Dr. Clarke over the week-end was 39 degrees and the precipitation was .02 of an inch.

The weekly forecast issued by W. H. Alexander, state weatherman, predicted cloudy and moderate weather until Thursday. Colder weather was predicted late Thursday or early Friday.

SANTA FOREVER
INDISSOLUBLE with Christmas is the spirit and presence of St. Nicholas — Santa Claus—the symbol of happiness, of the outpouring of generous hearts, a translation into actuality of the promises made to mankind at the birth in Bethlehem. Santa Claus is not merely a person around and ruddy face, framed in snow-white whiskers, his form gayly caparisoned in crimson and silver, a light-hearted old gentleman with a pack on his back with toys for little children.
The Christmas season is the time of youth and happiness and gaiety, the time of children, and for the little lurking springs of childhood remembrance which should lie within all human hearts. It commemorates the coming of a Child and of the greatest gift to the world. Inevitably it is dedicated to children and those who think the clean, sweet, unselfish thought of trustful youth.

Santa Claus is no nebulous dream. He is a real and living personality, showing from the happy faces of those who believe in Christmas in its truest sense, living and working in the hearts of those to whom giving is a joy, almost a selfish gratification, because they themselves derive from it such warm pleasure.
Pitiful, indeed, are those sour cynics who see in Christmas only its commercial aspects (as though they were more than merely a means to an end), the high-cost of gift giving, and the perversion of the Christmas-giving spirit into a sense of obligation.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS
CHRISTMAS shopping is at its height. Those who are wise are shopping now rather than later and there are many wise people in Circleville.
For many the shopping is part of the Christmas cheer. Borrowing merriment from Merry Christmas by anticipating the good time to come is good business.
Unfortunately there are those who view the shopping as a burdensome duty. They are the people who keep accurate record of gifts received last year to "pay them back" this year.
That procedure necessitates scanning the cost of gifts and neglecting the spirit of giving. People engaged in working out these debt-paying problems largely furnish the ill-will that sometimes is displayed in the crowd around the bargain counter.
But viewed from the balcony the shopping throng shows many more pleasing than unpleasant characteristics of human beings. Even those who obviously are weary, win admiration. They are making

WORLD AT A GLANCE
Stanley Reed, formerly general counsel for the FFB (Federal Farm board), later legal adviser of the RFC (Reconstruction Finance corporation) and now of the justice department's staff, is getting compliments a-plenty for his able defense of AAA (Agricultural Adjustment administration), on trial for its constitutional life in the United States supreme court.
Regardless of the court's final decision, not only New Dealers, but lawyers who were on the opposite side of the case, agree that he filed a wonderful brief in AAA's behalf.
AAA's opponents were non-plussed, too, by this formidable showing. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings' unsuccessful defense of NRA (National Recovery administration) knocked into constitutional "pi" by the supreme court justices several months ago, was a weak one. AAA's foes had looked for another "walkover." They admit that they ran into a pit in the jaw from Reed.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
EX-ALLIES HAVE SPENT MORE ON NEXT WAR THAN THEY OWE U. S. ON THE LAST
WASHINGTON—Ten years ago the ending of the European war debts hailed as a great triumph of the Harding-Coolidge Administrations. Today the only real memento of the War Debts—other than Finnish payments—is a table in the Treasury Department. Mr. Mellon had it carefully inscribed with little silver plaques giving the dates when each debt agreement was signed. It was one of his prize possessions. . . . Mr. Morgenthau, his successor, has relegated it to his Treasury luncheonroom, where he uses it as a dining table. . . . The figures are too long to be given here, but a check on European armament expenditures will show that in most cases the ex-Allies have spent far more on the next war than they owe the United States on the last. . . . There has been some talk in State Department circles of a move to create a scholarship fund out of Finnish debt payments to educate Finnish students in the United States. The idea is permanently to strengthen the bond of friendship between the United States and the only nation which paid its bills; also to show American appreciation for that payment.

BONUS COMPROMISE
Democratic politicians have a compromise formula on the bonus which they are urging on the President. By it they hope to persuade him to reverse his stand and thus not alienate the veterans' vote. The compromise is to defer bonus payment until July 1, 1937. This would assure the vets of early funds, but would not pile the cost on the 1936 (campaign year) budget.
something of a sacrifice that they may bring joy to others.
Merry Christmas shoppers! May their numbers increase. They are sharers of prosperity and promoters of prosperity. And those who are influenced by the true Christmas spirit will remember that for those who serve them in the stores the days before Christmas are just so many more days, only a little busier and more exacting.
Oil decidedly should not be poured on the troubled waters in the vicinity of Ethiopia.

A picture that rates the raves of every movie fan in town—and collected a lot of them last night when it began its 2 day run at the Cliftona Theatre—is Darryl Zanuck's filmization of "Call of the Wild," the immortal Jack London classic of the Yukon gold rush.
Rich in rugged drama and clean fun, the picture exerts a powerful appeal for every member of every family—the youngsters and their dads won't have to be told for they've all thrilled to this most famous of Jack London's tales, and the love story, beautifully played by Clark Gable and Loretta Young, will insure the feminine contingent of a grand time.

MURDER UPSTAIRS
by ADAM BLISS
READ THIS FIRST:
Lieutenant Kirk Larrabee is investigating the murder of Andrew Darian, a middle-aged bachelor who was stabbed to death with a carving knife as he slept in the boarding house of Alice Penny. Larrabee questions Alice in detail about the seven other boarders as well as Della Randall, the maid who reported the missing knife the evening before the murder. He learns that Darian was generally disliked and that he possessed a small fortune. Alice tells Grace, her cook, to keep a close eye on the remaining knives in the kitchen. The detective questions Alice again. Alice is amazed when Larrabee tells her she will inherit $200,000 through Darian's will. Conrad Withers tells Alice he discovered Darian's death before it became generally known. The first dinner at the boarding house after the murder, with Larrabee present, proves to be an ordeal. Determined to help solve the murder, Alice makes a list of anecdotes about everyone in the house.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)
CHAPTER 13
WELL, WHEN I finished my anecdotes about everyone in the house, I looked over what I had written, and discovered that I hadn't really very much to go on, except in the cases of Mrs. Starbuck and Mr. Hemingway. I was a little disappointed because I'd always thought I was so observing. I didn't want to build up a case against Mrs. Starbuck, and I didn't especially want to think of Mr. Hemingway as Andrew Darian's murderer, but there was no other way out.
I was reading the list for the third time when the swinging door from the pantry suddenly opened and I jumped up as if I'd been stabbed. When I saw it was Kirk Larrabee I sat down a good deal relieved, for in that moment when I'd heard the door open I'd thought I was going to be murdered for sure.
"You look pretty much startled," he said as he drew up a chair. "I thought somebody was coming in to murder me," I answered shakily. It was too late to get the list out of the way, but I did my best. I pulled over the bath towel bundle, and put it on top of the paper, hoping Larrabee wouldn't notice the scribbled underneath.
"What's this?" He touched the long thin bundle.
"That, Lieutenant Larrabee," I said pointedly, "contains all the sharp knives in the house except the one in my sitting room which I shall presently add to it. I'm going to sleep with it under my pillow to-night, with my door locked."
"You're sure all the knives are here?"
"Six are here, and with the one in my sitting room there'll be seven." I expected him to take up the bundle and examine it himself, but he didn't. Instead he said, "Good, only take good care of them and add the one I moved the bundle and took it from the list."
"I'd rather not have you read this please," I exclaimed desperately. There were things on that paper that he didn't know, and that I didn't want him to know yet.
"I see. A little mysterious, detective?"
"Well, yes." I couldn't deny the paper from his hands, could I? But I was sitting there and hoping and praying he was gentleman enough not to read it.

Toledo Fur Trim

For the football game Rosalind Russell recommends such a suit as she is wearing here—an imported woolen in beige, with tuxedo trimming of lynx fur. The suit is knit and consists of skirt, jacket and pulley scarf in shades of tan and brown. Brown shoes and hat, and pigskin gloves and bag complete the costume.

Meal Easy to Prepare And Nourishing to Eat

By MRS. MARY MORTON
MENU HINT
Creamed Codfish on Toast Points
Raw Vegetable Loaf Pumpkin Pie
Coffee Cheese

This is what I call a simple, but nourishing meal—one that is easy to prepare and good to eat. It is the type of thing the "business woman who comes home to get the evening meal, can negotiate without too much effort. And it will taste good. The salad and pie, of course, may be made the evening before, or the crust of the pie may be made and kept in a cold place until you want to bake it, then rolled out and put in a pie tin, filled with pumpkin filler and baked. If this is done first thing, when you reach home, the pie will be ready to serve when the rest of the meal is ready.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Creamed Codfish on Toast Points—Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt, paprika, one-half pound codfish, one egg yolk. Melt the butter, add the flour and stir till well blended. Add the milk gradually and stir till smooth and thick. Add the flaked codfish and seasonings and when thoroughly heated, the beaten egg yolk. Remove immediately and serve on toast points.

Raw Vegetable Loaf—Two cups shredded cabbage, two tablespoons diced green peppers, one table spoon pimento, one cup chopped onion, six grated carrots, one-half cup chopped celery, one-half cup diced cucumber, one tablespoons horseradish, one-half cup butter. Mix the well-drained vegetables, salt lightly and pour over the melted butter. Chill thoroughly. The butter will harden and act as a binder. It will be possible to slice this loaf. Serve on lettuce as a salad or as a sandwich filling. The cucumber may be omitted.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Eggplant and Lamb on Casserole
One pound diced lamb shoulder, two tablespoons lard, one eggplant, one onion, finely chopped; one teaspoon parsley, two cups tomato sauce, salt and pepper, paprika. Peel eggplant and chop. Place in a baking dish. Brown lamb in hot lard and arrange on top of eggplant. Add seasonings and pour tomato juice over all. Cover and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) until done, about one hour.

Vegetable Hints

One-half cup of milk added to the water in which cauliflower is being boiled will keep the vegetable firm and fresh looking.

If you wish to remove the skins from beets with greater ease—put the beets in hot water for a short while. Then pour off the hot water and give them cold water immediately. The skins will come off quickly.

AUTO CITY ADDS
FOOTBALL TITLE; GIANTS DRUBBED

Score in Pro Grid Contest is 26-7; Many Stars Started
With Ohio Team

DETROIT, Dec. 16.—The Lions took a seat beside the baseball-playing Tigers and slugging Joe Louis today as outstanding in their fields of sport by knocking off the New York Giants for the world's football championship Sunday afternoon, 26-7.

Persuasive was the key-word of the Lion team. The team was low in the standing in mid-season but kept climbing and finally won the western half title over Green Bay and the Chicago Bears.

The Lions, coached by Patsy Clark who started on the grid in his college days and overseas, were impressive in their Sunday game played before 12,000 fans freezing in a snow storm.

Gutowsky, Clark, Caddell, and Parker scored the Lions' touchdowns while New York scored after Strong received a pass and weaved his way through a broken field for 40 yards.

The championship is the first gained by the Detroit players. Many of the athletes started their professional careers at Portsmouth, O. with the Spartans and, although they came close several times, never gained the title. Members of the present team who played in the Ohio city include Gutowsky, Caddell, Presnell, Clark, Schneller, G. Christensen, Emerson, Randolph, and Ebdling.

All the players will receive a nice share of the gate receipts but the Lions are expected to clean up on the west coast where they will schedule a series of grid games during the winter with California collegians.

Regis Monahan, Ohio State's All-American guard, is a member of the Detroit roster.

"BEST ATHLETE"

N. A. A. U. Sends Jesse Card
Showing High Classification

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16.—(NIS)—Jesse Owens, Cleveland track star, who broke three world's records and tied another during a single day last May while wearing the colors of Ohio State university, has been named the outstanding athlete in the north-eastern Ohio district of the National Amateur Athletic union.

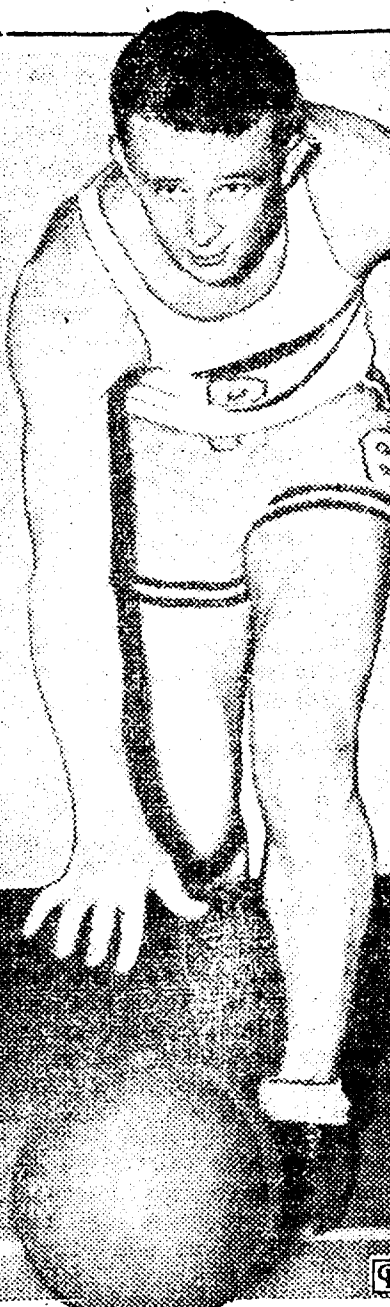

Registration Card No. 1 for the 1936 season has been sent to Owens at Columbus by James A. Lee, district secretary. Nine other athletes also were honored for outstanding performances.

JOE LOUIS RATES
MAXIE BAER BEST MAN HE HAS MET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(INS)—Max Adelbert Baer, California's gentleman rancher, may step forward today and take a bow.

For all the men Joe Louis has faced within the past year or so, he rates Maxie the best.

Being careful to point out he doesn't rate them on "their hitting—because none of them hit me hard enough to hurt me," Joe ranks eight of his victims in this wise:

1. Baer ("I had to hit Baer six times for every once I hit the others.")
2. Primo Carnera ("His left hook was good, and his jabs were heavy.")
3. Lee Ramage ("He was a good boxer, but no hitter.")
4. Patsy Perroni ("He kept heaving punches.")
5. Alex Borshauk ("He hit me my hardest punch.")
6. Paulino Uzcudun ("a little too slow covering up.")
7. Kingfish Levinsky ("He was too scared to fight.")
8. Nattie Brown ("he didn't fight at all—just kept trying not to be stopped.")

OHIO FACES MUSKINGUM

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16.—(INS)—Confident of a third straight victory, Ohio State University's basketball team today embarked for New Concord, where they meet Muskingum College tonight.

Third high scorer in the Big Ten last year, Capt. Warren Whittinger, Zanesville, will be feted by former school mates and a delegation of Zanesville fans before the game.

TWO STARS INJURED
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Dec. 16.—(INS)—The Cardinal grid squad today went about its practice for the Rose Bowl game without the services of Roger Munger, reserve end and ace pass-swarmer, and Monk Moscrip, all-American end.

Both men were in the hospital, Munger with a wrenched shoulder suffered while catching a pass in practice, and Moscrip with a flare-up of his old knee injury.

Coach "Tiny" Thornhill was due to return today from Los Angeles with the dope gathered on the S. M. U. team in his personal scouting expedition.

HORTON SMITH LEADS
CORAL GABLES, Fla. Dec. 16

(INS)—Horton Smith, tall, blond Chicago pro, paced a field of 73 professional and amateur golf stars into the final two rounds of the Miami Biltmore $10,000 open tournament today.

Smith's 139 for the first 36 holes, three strokes over par for the distance, was but one stroke better than the card of a comparative unknown, John Milutic of Youngstown, O.

GRID PICTURES TONIGHT

Many athletes are expected to visit the high school auditorium this evening when motion pictures of two Ohio State football games will be shown under the auspices of the Kiwanis club—the time is expected to be between 7:30 and 8 o'clock and there is no admission charge—At least one member of the Ohio State coaching staff is expected to accompany the film—The pictures shown will probably be of the Indiana and Michigan games—The first half of the Notre Dame game would be acceptable but Ohio officials are not so willing to put on display the second half of the same game ***

CHILLICOTHE IS STRONG

The showing of the high school cage team last Friday evening against the big Columbus Academy crew is still reverberating through the city's streets and in gathering places—Next Friday they face another test in traveling to Chillicothe—At a recent coaches' clinic in the Ross-co metropolis Ohio university officials branded the Chillicothe team as one of the best in the district—It is entirely possible that Jack Landrum's boys will run against an Ohio U. referee in their game, probably chesty Butch Grover or overbearing Russ Finsterwald—Chillicothe goes in for Ohio U. referees for one reason or another. ***

John Jenkins, tough luck boy of the high school, is not in such good shape physically—He had a banged up toe before the Academy game, then put something on his foot to help the swelling, and that burned—He'll be ready for Chillicothe, however ***

PLAY CAPITAL FROSH

The high school varsity will be given a test Wednesday evening when it travels to east Columbus to meet the Capital university freshman team—It'll be a real game ***

KAUBER DISAPPOINTED

Al Kauber, Ashville's genial coach, whose team plays the Tigers here Jan. 4, didn't think the game between Circleville and Academy would amount to much so he went to the Walnut-Pickaway contest—He missed something that might have benefitted him this encounter here—Ashville is expected to be one of the tough games on the Red and Black schedule ***

MASTERING BRIDGE (42)

THE AVERAGE efficiency of blind leads against suit calls may be ranked as follows:

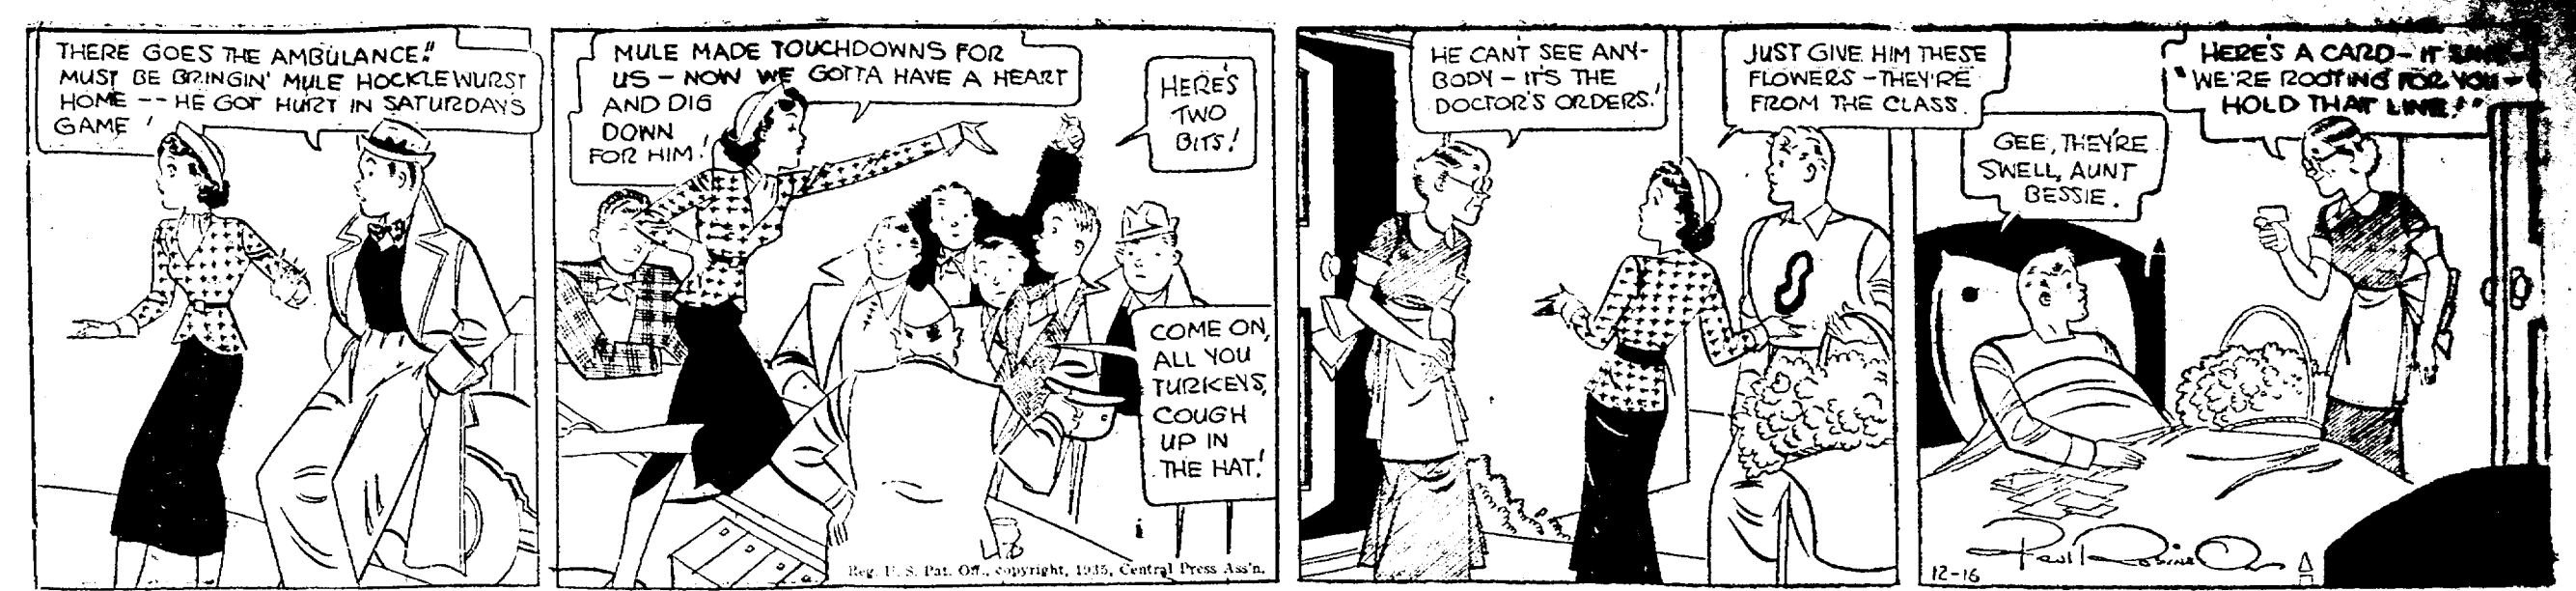

1. Solid suits (either those having only top honors in sequence, or having the four top honors);
2. Suits of any length exceeding four cards, when headed by A-K-Q;
3. Truncated suits, or solid sequences (K-Q-J, Q-J-10, Q-J-10-9, J-10-9-8);
4. Sequences of three or more cards, if headed by even a low honor;
5. Sequenced honors in long suits (K-Q-X-X-X, Q-J-X-X-X, J-10-X-X-X-X);
6. Intermediate sequences (J-9-8-7, 10-8-7-6);
7. Fourth best card from a suit not headed by Ace or King, or by a tenace;
8. Top of nothing leads (10-6-5, 9-7-4-2, 8-5);
9. Singletons, lower than the K.

The fourth best lead is only a choice of evils against trump makes. It is evidently an introduced directly from whist into bridge, without due consideration of the value at a game when the declaring side has deliberately picked a suit in which it has great strength. Bad as they are, the top of a suit headed by Q-J or J-10, or even top of nothing leads, are preferable to fourth best leads against trump calls. Remember, if you lead a supporting card from a long suit, as the 10 from 10-9-8-7, the next time the suit is led or played to follow down, instead of playing the lowest card, as if you held a doubleton, as a lead of the 10, followed by the 3 would show no more of that suit.

The longer the suit the less defensive value it has in proportion to its offensive value, when played against a suit call, due to the increased liability that declarer or dummy will ruff. A singleton Ace has four in 1,000 chances of being ruffed on its lead. There are 10 in 100 chances that the doubleton A-K will be ruffed not later than the second round. The trebleton A-K-Q has an average value of only 2.34 tricks. It may go untrumped for three rounds, but do not expect it to win more than two defensive tricks. A solid five-card suit's average defensive value is only 1.84 tricks. The value drops to 1.57 for a six-card suit, and to 1.27 for a seven-card suit. When doubling trump calls these liabilities to be ruffed must be considered.

grandfather is seriously ill and wishes you to come with me at once to Philadelphia.

Visit in Philadelphia
Yesterday Frederick Milne found a note in the apartment from Caleb in which the elder brother said he intended to visit his grandfather in Philadelphia in company with Dr. Green of Gracie square.

At noon the kidnaper letter arrived. Frederick immediately telephoned his mother, Mrs. Frederick Lucy Milne, who is separated from the boys' father, Caleb III, and who lives with her youngest son, Aubrey, in Woodstock, N. J.

Mrs. Milne hurried to New York and immediately went into conference with detectives. The news was also telephoned to Caleb's father in Philadelphia and his grandfather in Germantown, Pa.

The police immediately ascertained that there was no Dr. Green in Gracie square.

According to detectives, the fact that the ransom note advised the family to keep in touch with Caleb's grandfather indicated the writer had intimate knowledge of the family's financial status.

IL DUCE SEEKS MORE TERRITORY

Nations Must Go Beyond Offer, Paper Says

ROME, Dec. 16—(INS)—Premier Benito Mussolini let it be known today that any peace in Ethiopia must go far beyond the terms of the Paris plan—even though that would give him an area about twice as big as Italy.

While deferring his answer to the Franco-British proposals in a memorandum to let the League of Nations council at Geneva act upon and probably kill them Wednesday, Il Duce expressed a series of fundamental objections through the "inspired" press.

"Italy's rights in East Africa must be more fully recognized," wrote Virginia Gayda, frequently Mussolini's mouthpiece, in Voice D'Italia.

Must Take Another Step
"The good will of Paris and London must take another step forward."

Hinting that Mussolini would not accept the Paris plan even as a basis for negotiation, the controlled press put forth these objections:

1. "The territories conceded to Italy in Tigre, Danakil, and Ogaden provinces are smaller than those already occupied by our troops," Gayda wrote.

2. Return of the Holy City of Aksum to Ethiopia is "impossible," said Gayda, because the population of that area "surrendered spontaneously" and Italy "has assumed obligations there."

PICKAWAY-CO LEADS STATE IN PRODUCTION OF CORN

CENSUS FIGURES RISE AND FALL FOR AREA SHOW

County Had 2,153 Farms Last
Jan. 1; Average Value
Set at $9,188

Despite a reduction of 19 percent in corn acreage between 1929 to 1934, Pickaway-co held first place in the state in corn production, according to preliminary figures for the 1935 Federal Farm census, released today by Director William L. Austin of the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce.

Ross-co was second on the list in corn production and Henry-co, third.

With the reduction in corn acreage, the report shows Pickaway-co's crop numbers dropped 31 percent between April 1, 1930, and Jan. 1, 1935.

Wheat Acreage Up
Wheat acreage increased a small extent, while hay acreage increased 26 percent. Oat acreage declined 83 percent. During 1934 wheat was threshed from 59,847 acres and produced 1,145,320 bushels. Hay was harvested from 20,157 acres with a production of 21,236 tons.

Cattle increased almost one half during the five year period. The 1935 inventory of livestock included 28,925 cattle, 51,850 hogs, 17,229 sheep, 7,266 horses and 330 mules.

Pickaway-co had 2,153 farms on Jan. 1, 1935, of which 1,162 were operated by owners, 21 by managers and 970 by tenants. The entire value of the farm land and buildings in the county, as reported to the enumerators, was $19,781,591. The average size of the farms was 142.1 acres and the average value $9,188.

Average Now Lower
Under the 1930 census the value of the farm lands and buildings was listed at $24,438,039, the average value per farm was $11,985 and acreage value was $80.80 as compared to $64.66 in 1935. The average acreage in 1930 was 148.3.

The 1935 figures the inventory items for Jan. 1, the production items for the calendar year of 1934. In the 1930 report the inventory items are for April 1, and the production items for the calendar year of 1929.

Gene Arnold Joins Ranch Boys' Group

Genial Interlocutor Gets New Job After Losing Role With Minstrels

Gene Arnold, who for so long directed the Greater Minstrels only to be ditched in Gus Van's favor, is in a new show which includes the Ranch Boys' quartet, a smooth aggregation.

They are heard every week day except Monday and Saturday at 4:15 p. m.

Arnold came near setting a record interlocking for the Minstrel organization.

Lum and Abner, famous hick team, are going in for personal appearances and are in Indiana all this week. (Tip for some local manager.) They'd pack them in.

The annual Rose Bowl grid game will go on the air, of course, from Los Angeles, NBC carrying it. The opening of congress two days later will also be aired.

Alexander Woolcott is suffering from spondylitis and may exit from his Sunday night show at the expiration of his contract the end of this month. A new game is on the market, and it's called, of all things: Major Bowes' Amateur Hour. It's a table game which can be played by any number of people without losing their amateur standings. Eleanor Powell has recovered from her illness and is back on the CBS Tavern Fridays.

Elizabeth Rethberg made one of her all too rare appearances before the microphone Sunday. The pure soprano voice of the "world's most perfect singer" has been filling the Metropolitan for 14 years now.

Sunday before Christmas the hour will present a program by Grete Stueckgold, Kathryn Melsie, Richard Crooks and Ezio Pinza. The fee for the quartet, believe it or not, totals $7,000.

OPERATES ON SELF

CHARDON, O. — Mrs. Pearl Denton, of Huntsburg, was her own surgeon when she extracted from her tonsil with a nut pick a twig three-eighths of an inch long, believed to have been imbedded there since childhood when she choked on a red cedar twig while at play. At that time her father removed as he thought all of the twig. For years since she suffered pains and swellings in her tonsil. Her own operation brought instant relief.

JUSTICE AND POLITICS

IF an ungovernable urge for a place in the headlines was the principal motive animating Governor Hoffman in visiting Bruno Richard Hauptmann at the New Jersey state prison, as so many of his critics suggest, his purpose has been fulfilled far beyond his fondest anticipations. The governor has gained a full measure of publicity and finds himself the centre of attention. This achievement may be gratifying to him personally, but what is the reaction of thoughtful citizens and what will be the ultimate effect upon the repute of New Jersey justice?

It is not difficult to answer this last question. Even now there is fear that the case of Hauptmann, which should be decided by the constituted agencies of justice and in an orderly manner, is destined to become a football of politics and a means of shameless political exploitation.

If such a shocking situation develops, the responsibility will rest upon Governor Hoffman, who has not been content to let the processes of justice take their course, but has muddled the waters through his inexplicable visit to Hauptmann and his manifest encouragement of the activities of a country detective.

Governor Hoffman through his flair for sensationalism is furnishing meat and drink for the tabloids. His sense of the proprieties being somewhat warped, however, it may not occur to him that he is making a travesty of New Jersey justice and is creating the danger that this case, one of the most important in the criminal history of the country, will end in a fiasco.

OPPORTUNITY FOR DARK HORSE

GOVERNOR ALF LONDON, of the dry state of Kansas, will be fortunate if the finger of death has not been placed upon his blossoming political aspirations just at a time when the prospect is rosy.

Searching about for a candidate worthy of their approbation, the delegates to the annual convention of the Anti-Saloon League, meeting in St. Louis, have singled out Governor Landon for this dubious distinction.

Searching about for a candidate alone among all the field, the governor rises to their concept of an ideal candidate and, when the proper time comes, will be the recipient of their support.

If Governor Landon can withstand the blighting effects of this endorsement, he must indeed be a stalwart chap and able to bear up blithely in the face of the most severe adversities.

BLOWUP OF BERRY'S CONFERENCE INDICATES DEATH OF WHAT'S LEFT OF NRA.

WASHINGTON—The blow-up of Major George Berry's NRA Congress bodes ill for the chances of reviving the Blue Eagle at the coming session of Congress.

What was left after the Supreme Court finished its mauling, expires April 1. And there is little sentiment on Capitol Hill to continue even the remnants, to say nothing of restoring old powers.

Progressives as well as Democrats and Republicans are sour on the torpedoed "experiment."

The only group making any pretense of friendship toward the NRA is the A. F. of L. And this cordiality is chiefly on the surface. With the Wagner Labor Disputes act in their pocket, most labor leaders are satisfied to let things ride as they are.

Further, the more militant Labor leaders favor new legislation along the lines of the Guffey coal act in other words, "little NRAs" for each basic industry.

The apparel and textile unions already have announced their intention to offer such measures.

Insiders are wagering that the NIRA will be allowed to lapse. If any legislation is enacted, it will transfer the few remaining NRA powers to the Federal Trade Commission.

In fact, Berry himself is said to be secretly working on a bill to do just that, if all hope for the NRA vanishes.

Privately, New Dealers are not taking too seriously the collapse of Berry's attempt to pump new life into the Blue Eagle. From the very start the inner circle viewed his plan as a "trial balloon."

So it looks like "Finis la guerre" for the Blue Eagle.

BANKHEAD

Rex Tugwell's Resettlement Administration operates a project at Jasper, Alabama, the state which is represented in Washington by Senator John Bankhead and his brother Representative William Bankhead, father of the glamorous Tullah.

In tribute to their achievement, Professor Tugwell decided to name the Jasper project "Bankhead". However, the New Deal, in seeking to eradicate the name "Hoover" from Boulder Dam, had ruled that no project could be named for a living man.

So the Jasper project has been named "Bankhead" for the Bankhead's father, now deceased, whose name also was John.

incurring the wrath of the Economy League, Senator Borah turning heretic on the control of business, Senator Vandenberg accused of undue friendliness with certain New Deal policies, there remains only Mr. Hoover.

But Ohio Republicans decided only a few days ago that they did not even want to hear the name of Mr. Hoover mentioned. And this sentiment, it is feared, will be echoed in many quarters throughout the broad face of the land.

The happiest land, no doubt, is where there is no oil and not an atom of ore.

It isn't wise to give the kid a great man's name. He may not live up to it. And the great man may not, either.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

A reader, Carl Swadener, of Belleville, O., desires us to comment on "women taking men's places, thereby causing widespread unemployment."

Since I am a man, and a woman readily could replace me if she were so suited, I have requested a woman to give the woman's point of view.

This is what she says:

"I have any difference between the woman forced out into the world and the man? I know that it is said of a woman that her place is in the home, suppose there would be no home if she did not work? Suppose even more, that she literally was starved?"

"Marriage is not always available. Nor does a man desire as a helpmate a woman who has not struggled. He looks with suspicion on her. The battle will be hard enough even if she knows every angle of the terrific economic struggle."

"To deprive a woman of her economic rights would be such cruelty that many women would destroy themselves. Their last hope would be gone."

WHAT IS TROUBLE?

The woman continues: "Your reader confuses present man-made economic maladjustment with basic truths."

"Why are many men unemployed, while many women are employed?"

"Your reader may say, 'Because women will work for less.'"

"Then I say, 'A woman is forced to work for less. If you men would get to fundamentals, you would learn why.'"

"Very well, what are fundamentals?"

"It is not the employment of women that is causing unemployment for men, but the unbalanced economic system. As long as the present monopolistic cut-throat competitive system lasts, workers will bear the brunt."

"If the reader would find employment for 11 million men—and goodness knows how many unemployed women he must add in seeing that the profits of production are so distributed that all will share. Otherwise, the field of employment for both men and women will continue to narrow,

and the standard of living will decline with it."

"PLAY" WOMEN

My informant adds:

"Surely, the critics of women in employment would not desire them to become parasites. There are too many women parasites now—wives who have no need to work. They play at society, or even at politics, jabbing ridicule at every forward step, actually trying to push their working sisters farther down the scale of life."

"I cannot believe the average woman will return to the state of life in which she was nothing more than a child-bearer and a cook. However worthy those objectives are (and every woman yearns for them), life holds more for women. Women, as well as men, have minds. And they, too, are crushed by the same fate that strikes down men. Thus, they, too, must stand up and fight."

"But not until man recognizes woman as a fellow human being and joins common interest with her for economic and social salvation will unemployed men and women cease to walk the streets and dwindle the fields."

MURDER UPSTAIRS

By ADAM BLISS

READ THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Kirk Larrabee is investigating the murder of Andrew Darian, a middle-aged bachelor who was stabbed to death with a carving knife as he slept in the boarding house of Alice Penny. After questioning Alice, her seven remaining boarders, the maid and cook in detail, Larrabee learns that Darian was generally disliked and that he possessed a small fortune. Alice advised when the detective tells her she will inherit $200,000 through Darian's will. While Larrabee and Alice are talking, their surprise, Grace, the cook, listening at the door.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 20

"WHAT WAS the squeak anyway?" Larrabee was asking me after we had found Grace at the door and she had gone upstairs.

"The third stair from the bottom squeaks. Warped."

"Always?"

"I tried to fix it, but failed."

"The sitting room is more secluded than the kitchen. Let's go there," he suggested.

I picked up the towel-wrapped bundle, and followed him through the dining room, into the hall where Sergeant Burke was standing looking at himself in the mirror, and then to my sitting room. The carving knife was gone. The room wasn't in order as it hadn't been cleaned all day, but the absence of the knife gave me more assurance. I couldn't have sat and talked to Larrabee that night as I did, if that knife had been staring me in the face.

I was still thinking about Grace as I sat down—not in my usual chair in front of the desk—Larrabee had appropriated that, but in the same chair I had occupied that morning when he was questioning me. He had taken my list and comments from his side coat pocket, and was reading it. There was nothing for me to do but wait, with my bundle of knives on my lap. I wasn't angry—I couldn't be angry with him if I tried. I decided—and yet I was uneasy. That carpin of Janet's, Mr. Withers' confidences late this afternoon, Lucy's trips to her Doctor Rudeman. I shouldn't have put down anything on paper. I should have kept everything in my head.

He finished at last and looked up, but he didn't hand back the paper.

"I shall have to ask you to explain a few things on this paper, Mrs. Penny. The hairpin you found in Darian's room for instance."

Lamely I told him, glossing over the incident as best I could.

"And where did you put this hairpin?" He shot back at me, his brows almost meeting, over the bridge of his nose.

"I threw it away. On the lawn."

It sounded feeble, but he didn't scold me. That fact gave me a little more confidence.

"And Conrad Withers' visit to Darian's room?"

Well, I told him that, too, and how Mr. Withers had come up to my room about five o'clock to tell me there was no getting out of it. He'd find out himself eventually anyway from Mr. Withers.

He nodded when I finished. "I knew he had gone in, Mrs. Penny, but I didn't know when. The only fingerprints we found on that door this morning were three sets: Withers', his on the outside and the inside of the knob, Della Randall's superimposed on Withers' fingerprints on the outside of the door knob only. Yours superimposed on Della's on the outside and inside. So you see, I knew that Withers had been in the room sometime, and he denied being there. I couldn't break him down this morning. I assume, and you'll assume, too, that the murderer wiped the knob clean on both sides and out after his or her work was done, unless you are such a

"They aren't. Once or twice a year maybe, we go over them, and wash them with soap and water. The last time we did it was around September."

He coughed. "I thought so because on all the other knobs in the house we found masses of fingerprints."

"That means, then, that Mr. Withers went into Andrew Darian's room after the murder let it?" I asked rather shakily.

"I don't know, Mrs. Penny, but I'm working on that theory. I can't see, if Mr. Withers is the murderer, why he carefully wiped the knobs and then forgot that he'd left his own fingerprints on them. Unless he was nervous of course, and touched the knobs, both inside and out, after he had cleaned them, which isn't logical. Your fingerprints and Della's are natural. His aren't. I didn't tell him about his prints this morning, but I tried to get the information out of him by other methods. He didn't crack, but I could see he was very nervous. Is he usually nervous?"

"He has been this last three months. I mean, not nervous, but changed a little."

"Have you any idea why he wanted to borrow money from Darian?"

"The slightest. He wouldn't tell me."

Larrabee was silent for a moment. "I see we're going to get along very well, Mrs. Penny. Now another thing. That connecting door from Darian's room to Hemingway's. The door in the closet—"

"Yes, I know about that, too! I exclaimed. "Before you read what I had written?"

He said he had. That he had found it as soon as he searched Darian's room.

"Did Hemingway ever mention it to you?"

"Never, and I didn't tell him about it when he took the room."

"And yet, the hinges of the bolt were oiled, and clean. There was no rust on any of the hardware on either side of the panel. The bolts when we found them were both shot on Darian's side and on Hemingway's. Strange, isn't it?" He looked at me piercingly.

"Strange," I repeated after him. "What did Mr. Hemingway tell you about the door?" I was dying to know that.

"He admitted having used it occasionally, but not for the past few days. Certainly not last night. Both he and Darian, he claimed, kept their bolts drawn. Sometimes Darian would rap on the closet wall, and then Hemingway would come into his room by way of the closet panel. That's all Hemingway would say."

"Still Mr. Hemingway might have slipped the bolt on Mr. Darian's side, some time during the early evening, might have gone into his room later, that way, and afterwards drawn it again, and come out the hall and into his own room, through his own door—I'm not saying he did, but there's a possibility."

"There is, a strong one." He took a cigarette, tapped it on the desk and put it to his lips, before he thought to offer me one. I refused it, however. I wasn't as nervous as I had been that morning.

"But, Mrs. Penny, the most important thing on this paper," he said after he had taken a long, deep lung full of smoke, "is what Withers told you about the voice—if he is sure he heard it."

"He did, I'm sure. He swore to me that he heard a voice which he thought to be Mr. Darian's bid him enter the room. If you knew Mr. Withers, Lieutenant Larrabee, you'd realize he doesn't enter rooms without invitations. He's very self-effacing, and polite."

"The rain had started again, and was beating down on the window back of me, noisily. I felt sorry for the officer who was pacing up and down in front of the house. There was one at the back, too, but he was in the shelter of the garage."

Larrabee got up and drew aside the curtain, looked out into the rain, and with a sigh came back to his seat. "If Withers went into Darian's room a little after 6:30, as he told you, and heard that voice, it was not Darian speaking to him, for Darian was dead, and he had been dead for some hours. Doctor Maxwell, the police surgeon who examined him, can't place the exact hour of his death, but says it could have taken place anywhere from 11 to 5 in the morning. If we could find the exact time of the murder we'd be on surer ground, but we haven't been able to set. That's why we're working on the time when the knife was stolen from the dining room buffet."

My eyes went from his face to the desk. Unconsciously I was searching for the knife there.

Poems That Live

THE LAST WORD

Creep into thy narrow bed,
Creep, and let no more be said!
Vain thy onset! all stands fast.
Thou thyself must break at last.

Let the long contention cease!
Geese are swans, and swans are geese.
Let them have it how they will!
Thou art tired; best be still.

They out-talk'd thee, hiss'd thee, tore thee?
Better men fared thus before thee;
Fiercely their ringing shot and pass'd!
Hotly charged—and sank at last.

Charge once more, then, and be numb!
Let the victors when they come,
When the forts of folly fall,

THE EARTH AND MAN

A little sun, a little rain,
A soft wind blowing from the west—
And woods and fields are sweet again
And warmth within the mountain's breast.

So simple is the earth we tread,
So quick with love and life her frame,
Ten thousand years have dawned and fled,
And still her magic is the same.

A little love, a little trust,
A soft impulse, a sudden dream,
Is fresher than a mountain stream.

So simple is the heart of man,
So ready for new hope and joy;
Ten thousand years since it began
Have left it younger than a boy.

How to Care for Feet To Prevent Chilblains

By LOGAN CLENEDING, M. D.

THE CIRCULATORY system is not equally efficient in all of us. There are some people who are predisposed to trouble due to the peculiar arrangement of arteries, or structure or distribution of blood vessels.

Particularly is this due to the feet and toes. It is natural that if there is such a peculiar sort of an arterial system it would manifest its worst effects in the extremities, the point farthest from the heart.

People who are inclined to have numbness of the extremities in the summer time are likely to find these conditions exaggerated in the winter. They have the condition known as chilblains.

The well-known English medical journal, The London Lancet, identifies two forms of chilblains which it calls "acro-cyanosis"—one occurring in fat women between the ages of 15 and 25, and the other occurring in middle-aged thin individuals of both sexes. In connection with the condition we find certain constitutional signs—a harsh skin which feels cold to the touch, with bluish or purplish discoloration. The patients are also subject to headaches and are extremely sensitive to cold.

How Chilblains Develop

The course of the development of chilblains is, first, contraction of the terminal arteries under the direct influence of cold. People with the constitutional arterial system which has been described above, will naturally be particularly susceptible. After the arteries have contracted, they tend to react by dilatation. The reaction becomes excessive, an effort on the part of Nature to overcome the initial local anemia, and the result is blood stasis with heat, redness, swelling, pain and itching.

In the group of overweight individuals, it has been thought that some thyroid disturbance is present and many physicians have treated it with appropriate remedies.

In the extreme form which physicians usually see, the itching and scratching has brought on ulcerated areas or a chronic form of irritation of the skin, in which attacks follow each other during the winter months.

In treatment and prevention proper foot covering will help to insure an even circulation and an even temperature for the feet. This may seem sure for the feet. This may seem like a self-evident remark, but as one observes the number of silk stockings and low slippers worn by women on cold, slushy, winter days, it is a wonder that the entire female population does not have chilblains.

A woolen sock is the best foot covering the year round.

The ulcerated areas or scratches should be treated with a stimulating antiseptic, such as iodine, and hot foot baths, with vigorous self-massage, will go far to bring foot comfort in the winter.

JENKINS IS OUT OF CHILlicothe COURT CONTEST

Star Cage Performer in Bed With Possible Attack of Appendicitis

Chances of Jack Landrum's boys to take Chillicothe's basketball team into camp Friday evening were rudely shaken today when it was learned John Jenkins, sterling team leader, will be definitely out of the lineup. He is bedfast at the home of his parents suffering from what may be an attack of appendicitis. This fact has not been clearly established but it is feared he may have the ailment. Just what one youth can mean to a basketball team's chances will be seen in the game which will be played on the Chillicothe court. Jenkins while not a high scorer, is an ace defensive man, gets his share of the counters, and starts most of Landrum's plays.

Don Henry Needed Another thing bobbed up today that may hinder the Red and Black chances when it was learned Don Henry may not play because of work in an uptown store. With Jenkins out of the lineup Henry and Friley would be the guards. Melson will be raring to go at center and Stivers and Andrews are set for forward duty. Local fans have been looking forward to the Chillicothe game since the Tigers bumped off Academy's supposedly invincible team last week.

The Chillicothe team will be togged out in new uniforms and will be off in its first effort to negotiate a successful season. Success in the southcentral Ohio area includes winning the district tournament at Athens.

Big Center Returns Coach Young will have Cox, big tipoff man, back on the job and so will Jones and Strausbaugh be back. The latter is not so tough on the hardwood as he is on the football yard (thank the lawd). Other Chillicotheans being counted on by Young, an exponent of the blocking system, are Trainor and Higley as regulars; Conley, Cooke, Ludwig, Rees, Coleman, Thompson, Skaggs, and Sommers.

The reserve teams of the two schools will pry off the lid.

MANY TO OPPOSE CHANGE IN NAME OF OHIO LEAGUE

Proposals to change the name of the Buckeye conference in order to bring it more attention, nationally, apparently have met with disfavor.

With the conference now in its eleventh year, many feel that the league has begun to attract the spotlight and that a change of name now will mean postponing recognition indefinitely. Ohio university's success in football this year, it has been pointed out, has

Buckeye Squads Scoring High Count in Pre-frays

Clovis Stark, Wesleyan Star, Counts 26 Points in Game Against Goodyear; Other Teams Are Strong

DELAWARE, Dec. 17—At least four Buckeye conference basketball teams will present high-scoring combinations this winter if their opening games mean anything.

Miami, cellar team for several years, started off with a 35 to 19 victory over Wilmington, and then followed with a brilliant 49 to 21 win over Georgetown, of Kentucky. The Redskins will wind up a week-end tour tonight against Ball State Teachers at Muncie, Ind., and from the work shown by his men on the trip Coach John Maurer will know what his prospects are for the Buckeye season which begins after Jan. 1.

Ohio university's sophomores rang up a 48 to 23 victory over Bliss college last week, proving that Coach Grover has a combination which must be reckoned with in the Buckeye campaign. Cincinnati, too, showed power in its 46 to 30 win over Wilmington, the same 16-point victory margin which Miami had over Wilmington. And the Buckeye champions, Ohio Wesleyan, won an overtime thriller from Akron Goodyear, 53 to 47, with all-Buckeye Clovis Stark making 26 points.

Marshall has not played a game, and neither has Dayton, but the latter will open against Defiance Friday night at Dayton. Marshall's non-conference schedule has not been announced, Coach Cam Henderson planning on a few games outside the Buckeye circuit. Cincinnati will meet Goodyear at Cincinnati Thursday night in a finally shown the country what a tough little league the Buckeye is. Ohio, it will be remembered, won from Illinois; Cincinnati defeated Indiana, and Ohio Wesleyan gave Syracuse a hard battle before losing 18-10.

Principal-Faculty Manager E. E. Reger revealed today that Groveport will open the local season on Sept. 18 and that West Jefferson, providing it approves the contract offered, will be met here on Sept. 25.

The next week will see the opening of the Central Buckeye league season and for five consecutive weeks CBL foes will be met.

The season will wind up with Waverly on Nov. 4 and McArthur a week later. Three of the schools, West Jefferson, Waverly and McArthur, are new on the Tiger schedule and should provide interesting competition. Groveport lost here in the opener this year, 0-6, but had a green team on the field. Nearly all the boys who appeared will be back in uniform and will show the advantage of a year's training.

Coach Landrum will have to develop a backfield next fall with only Don Henry returning from this year's corps of ball carriers.

About This And That In Many Sports

OHIO PICTURES ENJOYED

Quite a crowd of Kiwanians, high school youths and townspeople enjoyed action pictures of parts of the Indiana and Michigan football games as played by the Ohio State team during the past season when they were shown at the high school Monday evening.

TWO STARS BELONG

The pictures were in charge of Mr. Thomas, assistant director of athletics, and William North, brother-in-law of John H. Dunlap Jr., Williamsport. Two famous Ohio stars accompanied Thomas and North to this city. They were Howard Yerges, quarterback for Chic Harley and Pete Stinchcomb, and Bobby Watts, who starred at center though one of the highest gridders in the history of the school.

Smatterings *** Chad Pettibone, Ashville man who went to Drake university and played football until he crashed against Herb Joesting of Minnesota, is living in Chillicothe and refereeing a lot of basketball games. Salt creek twp's cage team took it on the chin at Adelphi last Friday scoring only two field goals and losing 22-9.

NEW CLUB FORMED

Laureville has organized a gun club and will have its first shoot Dec. 24. Officers include: Albert East, president; Forrest Wolf, vice president; Clifford Strous, treasurer; Dearn Haynes, executive officer.

HERE'S AN OPPORTUNITY

With John Jenkins unable to play basketball Friday at Chillicothe, it seems to us this would be a splendid opportunity for one high school youth to show the true school spirit and report to Coach Jack Landrum for practice this evening.

GALBREATH TO ARMY

At least one Big Ten griddier is going to further his athletic career. He is Chuck Galbreath, Illinois captain, who has been appointed to West Point. He ought to be quite a griddier by the time he's been in a couple more schools. As a matter of fact, Galbreath right now for his weight, 188, is about the best tackle we know of.

JOSH CODY SELECTED BY FLORIDA UNIVERSITY

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 17—Josh Cody, line coach at Vanderbilt for a long while, has been elected head football coach at the University of Florida to succeed D. K. 'Dutch' Stanley.

CAPITAL CITY WINNERS

Ellsworth Trego, Commercial Point youth, played with the Mohy team and scored two points.

WHITLINGER SCORES 15

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17—Warren Whitlinger scored 15 points last night to pace the Ohio State cagers as they defeated Muskingum college's team, 50-25.

21 COLTS SELL FOR AN AVERAGE OF $229

Prices Demonstrate Value of Feeding Colts Well to Maturity.

Two hundred and twenty-nine dollars is a lot to pay for two-year-old colts generally, but that is the average price paid by horsemen from Ohio, Indiana and New York at an auction at Van Wert on December 11 for 19 mares and 111 geldings, reports L. "These prices that horsemen are willing to pay for good colts that

IS A SMALL SLAM POSSIBLE?

A SMALL SLAM is not often bid against an adverse no trump call, but today we have an excellent example of such a case. North had a large contract on his hands, but he certainly played the cards of his side with great skill. The gallery watched work with great interest, questioning among themselves whether or not the contract could be fulfilled.

Bidding went: South, 1-Heart; West, 1-No Trump. In an attempt to save off an adverse game call, or to encourage partner's bidding in case he held anything worth showing, North, 2-Spades; South, 3-Spades. The idea was how good partner was; North, 4-Spades; South, a conventional 5-No Trumps, to show three Aces and the K's of both suits previously bid by North and South, leaving it to North to bid a small or a grand slam. He bid 6-Spades and West doubled.

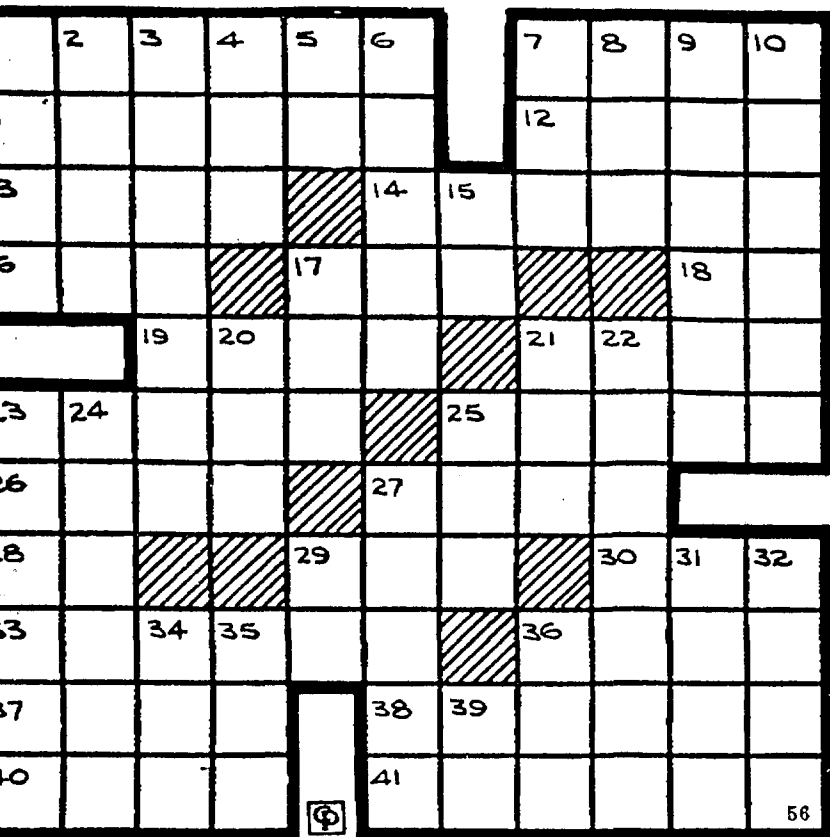

The opening lead was the 3 of clubs, marking West with three cards of that suit, and later on enabling declarer to count just what the double held. Dummy's Ace won, leaving both dummy and declarer with two losers in clubs. Hoping for an even break in trumps, declarer won the next two tricks with the K and Q of spades. East showed out on the second round, marking West's original holding of three spades.

Dummy ran off two winning hearts. On the second one declarer let go one of his losing clubs. The Ace of diamonds was led, to enable dummy to ruff itself back on a diamond. The J of hearts was led. West's 1-No Trump had announced possession of the Q, and he covered with it. Declarer ruffed. Dummy was put in through ruffing a low diamond. On dummy's good 9 of hearts declarer discarded his last club. Now declarer was able to count just one more diamond in West's hand. Another ruff of diamonds by dummy must establish declarer's Q. If West held the lone K, as expected, Declarer led a club from dummy and ruffed, it took next to his last trump. Each player was down to his last three cards.

Declarer led one of his diamonds. Dummy's last trump won. West's K fell and declarer's Q became good. The long heart was led from dummy. West was trapped. He held only the J of trumps and the K of clubs. If he trumped, declarer's Ace would win the twelfth trick and his good diamond would yield a grand slam. If West did not trump, declarer would discard his good diamond and the last trick must be won by the Ace of trumps. North not only fulfilled his small slam contract, but made a trick over.
